

TEMBLORS SHAKE PANAMA ZONE; NO WORD FROM LOCKS

Inhabitants Frightened by Series of Earthquakes Caused by Upheaval; No Damage at the Capital

PANAMA, Oct. 1.—Two earthquakes of an intensity much more severe than any disturbance since the Americans took possession of the canal zone occurred late tonight. They were felt from Panama City to Colon.

The first shock, as experienced in the capital, was slight and was quickly followed by one of longer duration which shook buildings to their foundation. The church bells were set to ringing; doors were thrown wide open, and residents were brought tumbling out of beds.

The first movement lasted about five seconds. It occurred about 11:20 o'clock. The second movement was of ten seconds duration.

The people at midnight were gathered in the streets. Jamaicans, who went through the disaster at Kingston and Jamaica, who have had similar experiences in their home country were particularly alarmed.

According to the seismograph there were two slight shocks, but these were practically unnoticed. The general movement appeared to be from west to east. Those familiar with earthquakes said the movement was more of an upheaval than a vibration from side to side. There has been no severe damage to buildings and no damage to the canal is so far reported.

COLON, Oct. 1.—A severe earthquake occurred here at 11:20 o'clock tonight. The disturbance was of nearly a minute's duration. Houses were rocked and the entire population was aroused. Thousands fled the streets and remained there in fear of the collapse of their homes.

The earthquake was the heaviest within memory. A second slighter shock occurred at 11:40 o'clock.

"The Dutch look," was on everybody's lips, but it was impossible tonight to learn whether any damage had been done there.

The disturbance began with a slow oscillatory movement which gradually became more marked. Houses swayed; clocks stopped and articles of furniture were thrown to the floor. Many of the residents became half panic stricken, and women rushed from the homes with children in their arms. So far no damage of any serious nature has been reported.

DANISH FIGHT ON HOUSE OF LORDS IS VERY BITTER

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 1.—The dissolution of the upper house of the rigsdag is probable in consequence of the third reading in the lower house of a bill granting universal suffrage to women, depriving the crown of the right to nominate members of the upper house, and withdrawing the special privileges with respect to the suffrage heretofore possessed by wealthy voters.

FEDERAL LIMIT ON GAME SHOOTING

New Law, Now In Effect, Applies In Certain Ways to California

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—President Wilson approved today the new federal regulations for the protection of migratory game and insectivorous birds. Promulgated by the Department of Agriculture in conformity with the act of Congress passed March 4, last, the regulations which became effective divide the United States into two sections—north and south of forty degrees and the Ohio river. The seasons of hunting are considerably modified for most of the Southern states and on the Pacific coast they have been made uniform for the states of California, Arizona, Oregon and Washington. Protection is to be extended to insectivorous birds throughout the territory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The state game and fish commission received advice today from the biological survey at Washington that President Wilson had signed the regulations for the protection of migratory birds.

Under the new law the uniform opening of the season will be October 15, and will close January 31, 1914. During that time wild ducks, geese, sea birds and the coast, known in California as the "mud hen," may be shot.

By and ducks, the rail and the western wild geese known as the "ben-hill" have been taken out of the list for five years and may not be shot during that time.

The game season, which opened in Northern and Southern California in districts 6 and 1 today, must stop immediately under the new federal regulation and not begin until the following year.

No shooting under the new law will be permitted until sunrise and must stop at sunset, which is one hour less a day than has been previously allowed. The old law allowed shooting to begin at dawn and before sunrise and continue a half hour after sunset.

MONUMENT ERECTED TO SALT LAKE GULLS

Mormons Gratefully Remember Their Help Sixty-Five Years Ago

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 1.—Commemorating the delivery of the monument to the Great Salt Lake sea gull was unveiled in the temple grounds here today. At the instant the lofty granite was uncovered a hundred white gulls were released and soared around their bronze counterparts at its apex.

President Joseph F. Smith and other Mormon church dignitaries participated in the ceremonies.

The monument is the work of Mahonri Young, a grandson of Brigham Young. In his address President Smith recalled that "home had her sacred geese, but Salt Lake has her gulls."

A grasshopper scourge which visited the pioneers in 1848 threatened to cause destruction to their crops when great flocks of gulls appeared and devoured the pests had been vanquished. Some of the pioneers whose crops were thus saved witnessed the unveiling today.

STATE LEGISLATIVE BUREAU ORGANIZED

Senator Thompson Elected Chairman of Body to Pass On Proposed Laws

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—The state legislative council bureau, created at the last legislative session, organized today in Governor Johnson's office. Senator Newton W. Thompson of Los Angeles county, Republican, was elected chairman, and Assemblyman John Gull of Chico, Democrat, was chosen secretary.

The other members of the bureau in attendance at the initial meeting were: Senator Edwin Grant, San Francisco; Senator Arthur W. Thompson, San Francisco; Assemblyman W. C. Clark, Alameda county, Republican; Progressive, and Governor Johnson.

The bureau adjourned after fruitfully deciding to pay a chief of the bureau to be appointed later, a salary of $2,000 a year.

SENATE CAUCUS FINALLY ENDS POMERENE FIGHT

Refuses to Reverse Action of Conference Sustaining Brandy Exemption

COTTON FUTURES TAX

Question Goes Over to Regular Session of Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The Senate today dealt the Pomerene amendment, its death blow, despite Pomerene's frantic appeal to the caucus to put back into the tariff bill his amendment which would have taxed brandy used in fortifying California sweet wines $1.50 per gallon. By 22 to 10 the caucus voted not to include the Pomerene amendment in the tariff bill report to the Senate tomorrow.

Senators who voted to put the amendment back in the bill were Pomerene, Ohio; Reed, Missouri; Vandenberg, Michigan; Hollis, New Hampshire; Hughes, New Jersey; and O'Gorman, New York. These six votes, while apparently cast for the Pomerene amendment, were also voted at the same time on the question of putting back in the tariff bill other provisions of the Pomerene amendment. Only two opponents of the Pomerene amendment, six votes, Pomerene and Reed, Senator Reed was fighting for the Missouri fake wine makers.

The caucus action finally disposes of the Pomerene attempt to ruin the California wine industry, at least for this session.

Pomerene made an impassioned appeal in the caucus in support of his amendment. He acknowledged tonight to a reporter that he "decidedly" intended to fight the question tomorrow in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Dissatisfaction among Democratic senators, which prevented today final action on the tariff bill, was dissipated under the influence of heated caucus discussion and this evening the caucus approved the bill as reported by the conference committee of the House and Senate. But six Democrats voted against approving the report.

The caucus decided to abandon its position on the proposition in the bill to tax deaths in cotton futures and to leave the entire subject for later legislative action. Both the amendment of Clark of Arkansas written into the bill in the Senate, and the less drastic administration substitute proposed by the House, will be thrown out.

After the conference, Senator Simmons said he was confident the Senate would complete its consideration of the tariff bill tomorrow. He said a motion would be made first to agree to the conference report and that then he would move to disagree to the Underwood tariff bill.

Senator Simmons expressed confidence that the Senate would desert from the Democrats who voted for the bill on its original passage in the Senate when the bill is brought tomorrow.

While Senator Simmons expects to finish the bill tomorrow, the desire of Republican and Democratic senators to discuss the provisions of the conference report may delay final action.

Today's caucus, which extended into the evening, battled long and over various provisions in connection with the bill, which were raised by the conference committee. Chief among these was the elimination of the tax of $150 per gallon on grape brandy used to fortify sweet wines. Against this motion Senator Pomerene of Ohio, who introduced the amendment providing for the tax, voiced strenuous protests.

Other disputed passages were the difference between wire rope and wire of completed cables, which was fixed by the conference committee with authority to alter these provisions. Senator Simmons, in charge of the bill, showed as a substitute for the conference report he accepted. His motion was carried by a vote of 33 to 8. Senators Reed, Pomerene, Vandenberg, Hollis, O'Gorman and Hughes voted against it.

Senators who supported the Clarke amendment taxing cotton futures expressed strong objection to the administration substitute and declared they would prefer to allow the entire matter to go over for special legislation rather than accept the Underwood provision. This plan was finally adopted without a vote.

JUDGE SAYS POLICE MUST STAND TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Superior Judge Dunne refused today to dismiss felony indictments pending against four policemen who pleaded guilty last spring to conspiracy with bandits and were sentenced to six months each in the county jail. The district attorney urged that there was insufficient evidence to obtain convictions, but Judge Dunne set the case for trial next Wednesday.

The four defendants are John Sullivan, Louis Dreier, Charles Joseph and William McHugh.

TAMMANY CHIEF SENDS FLOWERS TO SACRAMENTO BOSS

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—Thomas Fox, whose fight for continuation before the United States Senate attained national recognition, was sworn in as postmaster at Sacramento today. Fox was presented with a floral piece, the gift of Charles F. Murphy of New York. Fox was formerly postmaster here from 1895 to 1900.

BOY DESTROYS SEVEN WITH AX

Crime of Incredible Savagery Committed By Youth of 14 In France

NANTES, France, Oct. 1.—A crime of incredible savagery was committed yesterday by a boy fifteen years old, who murdered with an ax seven persons in the village of Babbriac in the department of the Loire Inferieure.

The boy, Marcel Redureau, employed as a vine cutter, and his employer, Georges Abati, quarreled yesterday evening. The boy became angry, seized an enormous ax, and with a single blow cut Abati's throat from ear to ear.

The young murderer then entered the home, and dashed up to Miss Abati and slashed her throat in the same way. She was dead, and then killed a servant in the same way.

The boy proceeded to another room where he dispatched his employer's mother, and then his sister, three of Abati's children. He spared a fourth child, aged 4, lying by his side.

Redureau went to bed and slept calmly until morning. The bodies were discovered by villagers. After his arrest he made a complete confession.

SAY WOMAN CONFESSES TO KILLING CHILDREN

Lover Is Said to Be Cause of Murders During Past 8 Years

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—According to a statement by Chief of Police Martinson and County Attorney Mrs. Ida Lockwood made a second confession today with regard to the death of her children. The police declared last night that Mrs. Lockwood confessed to having caused the death of six of her children by poison.

In her confession, the officials said, Mrs. Lockwood declared that she had murdered one of her children, and tempted to kill another and to take the life of her husband within the last month. She said to have admitted having killed her daughter, Viola, aged 12, and her son, William, aged 12. The five children who died between 1898 and 1912, she said, died from natural causes. Mrs. Lockwood said she had declared a man whose name has not been made public inspired her "to get rid of her entire family."

WOMEN RESIST BEING RE-ARRESTED

Suffragists Again In Custody Under English "Cat and Mouse" Act

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A lively scene between the police and the militant suffragists occurred today when Miss Harriet Roberts Kerr and Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, secretary and treasurer of the Women's Social and Political Union, were re-arrested at their headquarters under the provisions of the "cat and mouse" act.

Mrs. Saunders is under sentence of fifteen months imprisonment and Miss Kerr twelve months for conspiracy in a "hunger strike."

The two women and resumed their duties this morning for the first time after the raid on their office last April. When the police arrived to arrest them, the women staff assaulted the policemen. Four of the young women were arrested for interfering with the police. The policeman's coat was torn to shreds.

RAIN CLOUDS BURST OVER NEW YORK CITY FLOODING STREETS

Two Fatalities Among Accidents of Afternoon; Traffic Blocked and Great Damage Done

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A rain storm that reached almost cloudburst proportions descended on New York this afternoon, establishing a record precipitation that flooded streets, tied up the subway, hampered surface and elevated traffic in city and suburbs for several hours and caused property loss that can scarcely be estimated tonight.

Two persons were killed and several injured. Four men were buried in a sewer cave-in but were rescued. Lightning played havoc the city and struck an elevated train and several buildings, setting fires which the deluge extinguished. Incoming trains from all directions were delayed as cars and tunnels resembled rivers within canyons.

Within the city the traffic congestion was such that the sources of the transit companies and the ability of the police to handle the crowds were severely taxed. Brooklyn bridge saw the greatest traffic rush in its history. It was late tonight before transportation officials announced resumption of normal traffic.

There was little wind here, but along the New Jersey coast there was a gale blowing 50 miles an hour. Rain swelled the Passaic river nearly to its previous record high water mark and the streets of Newark were inundated. Low lying Jersey meadows became swimming pools of the river.

In New York the weather bureau, established in 1871, recorded a new figure in amount of rainfall for two hours, when 3.22 inches descended. Within approximately twelve hours, ending about 6 o'clock tonight, 4.86 inches fell.

Thomas H. Walsh, a train dispatcher, bossing a pumping gang in the subway, slipped and fell on the third rail and was killed. The other victim during the storm was Patrolman Hugh Clarke of Jersey City, electrocuted at his street call box, which had become charged after wires became crossed.

INSURGENTS LEAVE PIEDRAS NEGRAS

Give Americans Assurance That Town Will Not Be Looted

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico, Oct. 1.—A city of Piedras Negras will not be destroyed and every protection will be afforded property owned by Americans and other foreigners during any hostilities that may arise between the Constitutionalists and the Federal army. This assurance was given today by a representative of Jesus Carranza, Constitutional commander, through United States Consul Blocker.

It had been reported that with the evacuation of the city by the Constitutionalists plans had been made to demolish the town to prevent anything of the kind from falling into the hands of the Federalists. The advance of the Federalists into the town was expected to be made in the near future.

In the communication to Consul Blocker and the military authorities, Carranza expressed the hope that nothing would occur to warrant the American soldiers crossing the international line. It was intimated that it might become necessary to destroy some of the buildings belonging to known Federal adherents, but that Carranza owned property would receive full treatment.

Following this assurance, remaining residents of Piedras Negras, with the assistance of the American authorities, organized a neutral government and fifty men were employed to guard property and reports that abandoned residences and business places. Looters will be summarily shot.

The protests of the State Department were presented by General Blocker and Major Caldwell of the Fourteenth United States Infantry in command of the troops at Eagle Pass. At the conclusion of their conference with the Constitutional authorities the Americans were greeted with cries of "Jesus Carranza" and "Federalists."

In the American side soldiers paraded the entire river front to prevent Federal sympathizers crossing the border to begin a filibustering expedition. Fear of such a contingency after the army left Piedras Negras caused Carranza to order the Constitutionalists to stay in the town.

From the front today came word that every bridge had been burned to prevent Carranza and Carranza, who the Constitutionalists army is gathered for its last stand before the border. It is now impossible to reach Piedras Negras from the south by rail and it is believed that this measure was taken to prevent further retreat by the rebel army.

Tonight hundreds of wagons were still lined up before the international bridge awaiting an opportunity to cross to the American side. Women and children slept inside while the men kept watch outside guarding their possessions as they had been able to carry in their flight. Most of them are of the poorer Mexican rural class.

Those familiar with the situation believe the danger of a general carnage in the past and that the most normal conditions will prevail unless irresponsible mobs should gain control of the city. Discovery of several cases of smallpox today created intense excitement among the poorer classes, most of them in Piedras Negras. No trace of the disease was found among the wounded, most of whom were transferred to Eagle Pass this afternoon.

LOUISIANA TOWN IS UNDER WATER

Boats Distributed About Lake Charles to Remove Residents

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 1.—Menaced on one side by danger from a further rise in the Calcasieu river, another tonight, and on the other by an inundated overflow from English bayou, Lake Charles is confronted with one of the most serious floods in its history. Back water from the bayou was flowing into one of the principal residence districts tonight at the rate of two inches an hour. Only the northern part of the city and a strip along the lake side, six blocks wide, remained entirely out of water. Boats have been distributed over the city ready for an emergency.

Trains of the Southern Pacific, the only railroad operating trains into the city, were a foot under water tonight. Rescue parties were sent out from the town to remove to high ground many persons who were in farm houses east of the city, where the water was covered the land from four to ten feet deep.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 1.—Another night of rain has increased the gravity of the flood situation in southeastern Texas and southwestern Louisiana. Streams still are rising. Heavy service east of Houston is almost paralyzed. Hundreds of homes in Lake Charles, Louisiana, are under water and business is practically paralyzed.

NO DECISION ABOUT GOVERNOR'S CANDIDACY
Johnson Will Not Make Announcement Until End of Year

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—Governor Johnson this morning reiterated his statement that he would not decide until the end of this year whether he would again be a candidate for public office. This statement also read that the policy of progressive depended upon the will of the people, not upon a few men. Governor Johnson said:

"I assume that Progressives will determine their course in due time. Whether personally I shall be a candidate for any office will be determined by me at the end of this year. The policy of Progressives will be determined by the great body of Progressives—not by any one or two or three men."

LANE WELL ENOUGH TO RETURN TO CAPITAL
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior and Mr. Lane will leave tomorrow for Washington, D. C. They plan to stay over a few days in Denver enroute.

Secretary Lane returned today from a week's visit to Monterey Bay and is much improved in health.

MILLION DOLLAR SUIT
CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The government's suit for $1,000,000 against the firm of Hobbins and New for failure to complete the government pier at San Diego, Cal., was set for trial December 1, by Federal Judge Landis here today.

PROSECUTION ENDS ITS TESTIMONY

Defense Asks Adjournment Till Monday Sulzer and Wife to Testify

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The assembly board of managers rested, their case today in the trial of the impeachment of Governor William Sulzer. The high court then adjourned until tomorrow afternoon, when counsel for the governor will submit several preliminary motions for the court to decide before opening the case for the defense.

Those opposed to counsel probably will ask permission to take another adjournment, before calling their first witness. This witness, it is said, will be Louis A. Simuley, the governor's campaign secretary, whom counsel for the impeachment managers failed to put on the stand, although he was under subpoena. Simuley induced many of the checks given Sulzer in his campaign which were not reported in his sworn statement of campaign contributions.

The governor and Mrs. Sulzer are expected to take the stand before the defense closes. The governor will defend his failure to report numerous contributions on the ground that they were personal gifts.

Mrs. Sulzer, it is said, will defend his alleged speculative transactions with testimony to show that they were conducted for her account. She is expected to tell the story of the loan she made to the governor, secured with the Carnegie Trust company and used to prove that for the sole purpose of paying the loan the governor borrowed money from the stock exchange firm of Harris and Fuller on securities owned by her and did not speculate with the firm.

AS TO COLWELL
Whether the long missing Frederick L. Colwell, the governor's alleged agent in his Wall street transactions, will be called, was a subject of much speculation tonight. His whereabouts have been known to the governor's attorneys, but they have declined to produce him unless it was stipulated that he would not be placed under arrest for refusing to obey a subpoena of the law enforcement committee. This counsel for the impeachment managers said tonight they were powerless to prevent.

Lieutenant Commander L. M. Josephthal, who paid a debt of $25,752 contracted by the governor with Harris and Fuller, according to the attorney, is expected to be another witness. He reached Albany today from New York, where he arrived today from Europe. His testimony, it is said, will be highly favorable to the governor.

Attorney Harvey D. Bishop will make the address opening the governor's case. It was chiefly because Mr. Bishop, who has conducted most of the cross examination, had become exhausted that Judge D. Cady Herlick, chief counsel for the defense, asked today that adjournment be taken until Monday. This request was denied by the court in an executive session.

The close of the case of the assembly managers today marked the lapse of two weeks since the trial began and of 24 days consumed in taking testimony. Many witnesses under subpoena, including William J. Connors of Buffalo and Hugh J. Kelly of New York, railroad builders, were not called. Both were subpoenaed to testify as to contributions they are supposed to have made to Gov. Sulzer. They may be pinned on the stand in rebuttal.

GRAY'S TESTIMONY
The final effect of the managers was the testimony of John B. Gray, member of the brokerage firm of Fuller & Gray, which handled the "account No. 11."

JAPAN MAY ASK FOR NEW TREATY

Put Land Question Squarely Up to Wilson Administration

TOKYO, Oct. 1.—It is understood that Japan and the United States are discussing the possibilities of arranging a new commercial treaty.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Surprise was expressed at the state department at the report from Tokyo that another round of the Japanese land legislation had been discussed in Washington. The last Japanese note presented more than a fortnight ago remains unanswered. It has been assumed that the negotiations temporarily would be held in abeyance until the return of Counselor John Bassett Moore, who has been in direct charge of the correspondence in the latest phases. Mr. Moore has been on a month's vacation and returned to Washington only today.

By mutual agreement, the principals have sought to maintain the strictest secrecy as to the various steps in the negotiations. It is reported here, however, that the Japanese government has reached the conclusion that it cannot successfully meet the contention of the state department that the California land law is not in conflict with the existing treaty, and has decided to seek a new convention.

Unofficial information from Japan indicates that Japan, instead of seeking a substitute for the Knox treaty of 1911 an entirely new convention, of general scope, is inclined to ask for an agreement that will in conventional terms recognize the right of Japanese landownership in any state of the United States on even terms with the citizens of any other nation. The attitude of the State Department regarding such a proposition remains to be developed.

ATHENS, Oct. 1.—Greece is preparing for war with Turkey and the reservists have been summoned to the colors within three days. The immediate evacuation of Dedeagatch has been ordered.

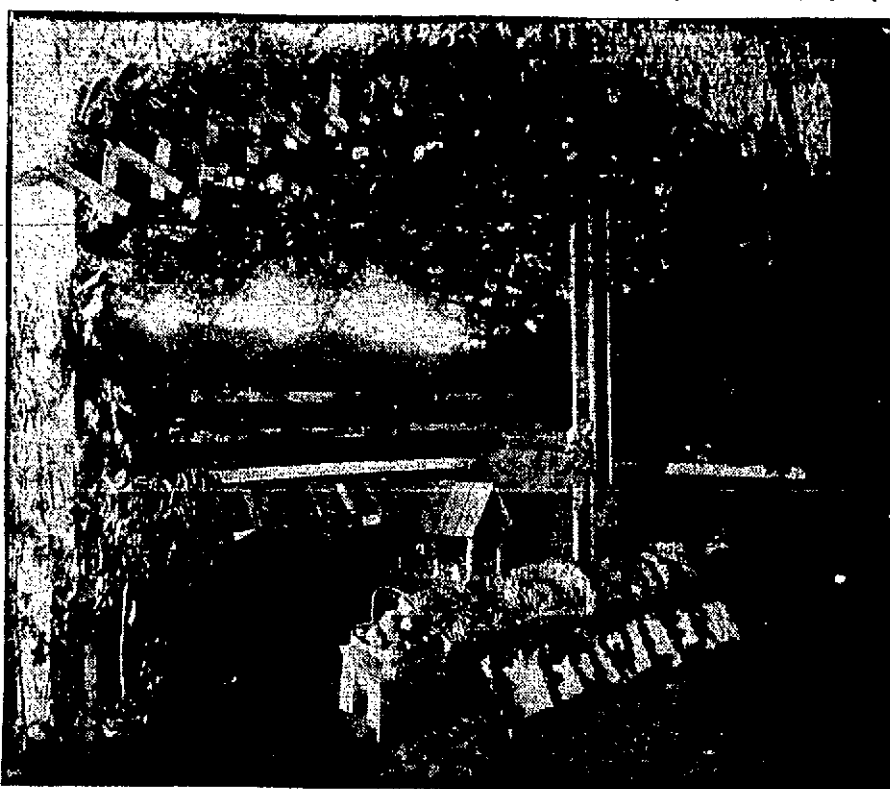

BELGRADE, Oct. 1.—Serbian officials announced that the title of battle in Albania has now set in their favor, the Serbian army having recaptured Dibra and Ochrid. The Serbs now outnumber the Albanians and are pushing the latter back.

VETERAN MASON OF MARYSVILLE DIES
MARYSVILLE, Cal., Oct. 1.—John George Macdonald, aged 86, one of the oldest Masons in the United States, died here today. He joined the fraternity in New York state 65 years ago, and at the time of his death was a member of all the Masonic lodges of Marysville and Islam Temple.

THREE DEMENTED CONVICTS ESCAPE
TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 1.—Three demented convicts, Thomas Fureh, Bernard Engelson and George Richmond, inmates of the state hospital for the insane here, escaped from the institution tonight. The men fled open a window in the dining hall and had been gone more than an hour before their absence was discovered.

District Fair is in Full Swing

FOWLER, FIRST PRIZE IN AGRICULTURE

VIEW OF THE FOWLER EXHIBIT IN AGRICULTURAL HALL WHICH WAS AWARDED FIRST PRIZE.

Future County Day at the fair yesterday opened up with thousands of people on the grounds which contrasted strangely with the number of visitors who were there the day before. They went everywhere and in great numbers. Although the officials in charge of the fair have provided diversions of all kinds to attract all kinds of people, each and every attraction received its due quota of the crowds who surged in and around the various exhibits and special attractions.

The crowds took in the commercial exhibits on the lower floor of the pavilion and the displays of the handicraft work of the ladies on the upper, the poultry show, Agricultural Hall, the scientific baby show, automobile building the agricultural implement displays of all kinds, the horse, cattle and swine shows, the carnival grounds, and the down and one other features that cater to the people at district fairs.

The grand stand was crowded with visitors who were interested in the harness and running races, the diving acts, the somersaulting acts and the auto polo games and the fireworks in the evening as well as the other feature acts at that time.

The new big trouble yesterday, which President Dickinson and Superintendent Powell say will be eliminated today is the drawing out of the acts on the program with long intermissions. Although the band tried to make up for the tiresome waits, the people became restless long before the program was finished. There was not one-fourth the people in the grandstand when the second period of the auto polo game was commenced. By the time the last period of the game was ended, the grandstand held but a few people and it was almost dark.

OUT-OF-TOWN VISITORS
There were hundreds of visitors yesterday from the various towns lying around Fresno. Many of these people came in their automobiles, which, parked together as they were, covered a few of the 160 acres which comprise the fair grounds. They stayed over the evening and went home with their machines with the promise of returning again on the morrow. The others came into the city and registered at the hotels with the intention of remaining over the week. Although many of the hotels in the city are crowded they are making ample provision for all those who are here or who are coming or

FOWLER WINS FIRST PRIZE
Fowler won the first prize of the towns making exhibits in the Agricultural Hall under charge of Superintendent Roger M. Roberts. Besides taking the blue ribbon for the excellence of her display, Fowler took $150 which comprised the pecuniary reward which went to the owner of the first prize. The awards received by the other prize winning towns were as follows: Kingsburg, second, $100; Selma, third, $75; Sanger, fourth, $50, and Caruthers, fifth, $40.

The Fowler exhibit consists in the main of a scene depicting the dried fruit industry in that district in miniature. There is a packing house of the California Associated Raisin Company and a plant of the Fowler Fruit Company on display, besides toys representing men and women, spar racks together with a train, fruit drying sheds, sugar houses, wagons, etc., in fact almost everything that would give a person an idea of the packing industry. Around the edges of the exhibit are various kinds of green and dried fruits and vegetables. The edges are trimmed mainly in green bays with a back ground of green. Potted plants set off either end of the display. Mrs. J. S. Munday is in charge.

OTHER JUDGING
Judging in other parts of the fair also started yesterday and was completed in the poultry and horse divisions, besides the agricultural. Judges were busy in the baby show and the cattle show and will not make their reports until either today or tomorrow.

The judges all say that the exhibits shown this year at the county fair are in many cases the most complete that have ever been shown here in point of number and variety. They all state that the majority of the exhibits

"UNEMPLOYED" FAKE

Perhaps the best-written of the stories in the San Francisco papers on the final-urge of the close-of-the-Harbor Coast, described the hollow falsity of the alleged gaiety, overshadowed by the worry of the girls because they could be out of a job the next day. To be sure, club women and philanthropic societies had found jobs for them all, but how is a girl accustomed to making $20 a week to learn to live on the mere wages of honest labor? Hence the sadness, showing through the forced laughter of unaccustomed sobriety.

To be sure! But, after all, doesn't it make you a little tired, this talk about the terrible wrong of "throwing out of employment" the delinquents of suppressed tenderness? It is a serious problem, of course, as is any problem of the unemployed. But do these alleged philanthropists who grieve for the possible unemployment of the vicious, show any similar concern when a factory "reduces force"? When the dull season comes on, or times get slack, the common and obvious economy is to "lay off" surplus hands. Nobody cries out against the injustice of saying dividends by adding thousands of dollars to the unemployed. But it is a terrible thing to save the decency and increase the virtue of a community at the risk of adding a few dozens to the ranks of the unemployed. It is no calamity, but quite the obvious thing, when the seasonal occupations, at the end of their season, turn loose their crews. When Stone & Webster, after the first sup, or even as an incident to an industrial dispute, send down thousands of unemployed men to Fresno, or when the packing houses, at the close of the rush season, turn out an army of unemployed women, nobody proposes that these unemployed persons be licensed to conduct some predatory operation, to "take away" from other people such living as reports to their tastes and pleasures.

We are not saying that this indifference to unemployment is right. On the contrary, it is one of the barbarisms of our present undeveloped industrial system. But it is at least familiar and universal; and if we are going to worry about unemployment, the place to begin is the problem of the unemployed of the honest, the useful and the underpaid, rather than of vicious and overpaid predatory parasites.

WEAK AT LETTERS

Naturally, the movement in modern education to teach students to earn a living has had, contrarily, the result of depriving them of time to do certain things that formerly occupied students in colleges and universities. Now one studies chemistry of the soil and lath work and the forging of lath and how to construct a telephone switch board. It leaves little or no time for the turning of the odes of Horace into English. The mathematics and the classics as twins of culture have given way to the science of knowing where one is and the art of making a living without reference to ancestral estates or the unearned increment.

To the conservative soul, however, this is all wrong. And as is usual with protest, the complaint is supported with considerable argument and a certain reason. It is regrettable that graduates of colleges cannot write as well as they did once on a time. It is used to be a favorite stunt of belles lettres to compile the epistles that men of note wrote, and, of course, they were in classic English of the perfection that could be filed away in a library as in a sarcophagus, with the knowledge that if any one should happen to read them, the language would not grate upon the most delicate sensibility. We do not write as well as we did once. Possibly we do not read as well. As one of the critics who disparage the present and glorify the past has pointed out, many a man now graduates from college without knowing who Shelley is. Robert Burns, to such a Philistine, may be no more than the patron saint upon whose anniversary those campy people, the Scots, get full and wince happy.

It is sad, but the worst of it is that for the most part the victim sinner refuses to repent. If, say, the man who can run a life insurance business as a result of the technical training he has received, or the railway builder or the agricultural specialist, would approach with tears the altar of the humane letters and admit his error, declare that it had been better had he done a hundred lines a day from Thucydides than to have studied the strength of materials or the bacteriological content of milk, then the conservative might have been able at least to forgive, if not to forget. But the Philistine goes right on, indifferent to the seductive quality of poetry or the search for eternal truth by way of the unfatigable syllogism. He refuses to be sorry for what he has missed. Like Lot's wife looking back on Sodom and Gomorrah, or like the grande dame of the Faubourg St. Germain, looking through dimmed windows upon the bloody furies of a French revolution, the lover of the older culture sees the world in the grasp of an illiterate mob. While the modern Philistine goes on his way, feeding babies better food and giving grown men and women more of the joy of life, even though he himself cannot write a paragraph description of a fire for the morning paper without falling over some tangled participles.

A CURIOUS DISEASE

The daily bulletins of the condition of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, recently operated on for gastric ulcer, are a reminder of a curious medical, or, rather, physiological fact, involved in this disease. For literally, the most difficult thing to explain about gastric ulcer, is not how some people occasionally get it, but how any man, or animal can live for a single day without getting it.

Gastric ulcer appears to be caused by the stomach digesting a spot on its own walls. The whole substance of the stomach is composed of tissues readily digestible in the gastric fluids which it secretes and contains. It is like storing water in a receptacle made of salt or sugar, or building a fire in a wooden box. Yet, for some reason, the stomach does not digest itself. That reason is not the mere fact that the stomach is alive, or that an animal can not digest itself. On the contrary, the experiment has been tried of making an opening in the stomach of a rat, inserting the end of the rat's tail, and sewing up the opening. The end of the living tail was promptly digested off. What happened to the tail does not happen to the stomach, and the mystery is, Why not?

In the case of gastric ulcer, a temporary stoppage of the blood supply to some spot in the wall of the stomach seems to suspend the resistance of that portion, and the digestive process at once attacks it. Usually the condition cures itself, by the closing of the injured spot with scar tissue, and even that scar tissue shares the immunity of the neighboring structure. Occasionally the digestive process produces perforation, and then, unless there is an adjacent inflammatory adhesion, there is trouble calling for a prompt operation, with great danger of peritonitis even then. This is what happens in the disease. But the mystery still is, Why does it not happen all the time, to every living creature?

TEN IN CHICKERING FAMILY ARE BITTEN

Following Death of Puppy,
All Are Undergoing the Pasteur Treatment

OAKLAND, Oct. 1.—Ten persons, eight in one family, bitten by a supposedly rabid pet spitz, are today undergoing the Pasteur treatment. They are Allen A. Chickering, prominent attorney; his wife, his four children: Miss Carol Oberbury, a niece; Miss Ethel Brown, a domestic, and two children of Herbert Hamilton Brown, a broker, who were playmates of the Chickering children. The animal, a puppy, was purchased several weeks ago. It was killed after it had bitten members of the family. It is now feared from its actions that it was rabid. The body was disposed of and examination is impossible.

Mrs. Allen Chickering is well known in Fresno as the former Miss Alma Sherman, stepdaughter of the late Mrs. Minnie Eschelman Sherman and her principal heir. Mr. Chickering is executor of the Sherman estate.

WANTS TO HELP WOMEN ON FARMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Declaring that "the farm woman has been the most neglected factor in the rural problem," and that the Department of Agriculture wishes to render directly to the women of the United States "the full aid and service which their important place in agricultural production warrants," Secretary Houston has addressed a letter to the farmers of the country asking their opinion as to how the department can improve its service for them.

TUNNEL FIRE IS AT LAST EXTINGUISHED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The fire which has been burning for more than a week in tunnel No. 7 at Guadalupe, San Luis Obispo county, on the Southern Pacific's coast line has been extinguished, according to advices received tonight by the railroad officials.

About 500 feet of the west portal is blocked by the fire, and a 400-foot cave-in fills the east end.

A large force of men and a steam shovel are working night and day clearing the three-quarter of a mile bore.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—Allen Wiedman, a high school boy whose skull was fractured while playing football September 24, died at the home of his parents here today. Young Wiedman collided with another player.

The WORLD'S MYSTERIES

"THE WANDERING JEW."

There is no mystery in the story of "The Wandering Jew," so far as such a personage is concerned, but there is a mystery as to when and how the story originated. It is the story of an imaginary figure, according to the Jewish Encyclopedia, of a shoemaker who, tending Jesus on the way to Golgotha, was told by him to "Go on forever, until I return."

No one seems to know just how this story started. So far as can be learned the legend first appeared in a pamphlet of four leaves which it is supposed was printed at Leyden in 1602 by Christoffel Crutger, but no printer of that name has been discovered, and the real place and printer cannot now be ascertained.

The legend spread quickly throughout Germany, no less than eight different editions appearing in 1602; although first appeared in Germany before the end of the eighteenth century. The story soon passed to other countries, and appeared in England about 1825.

The figure of the doomed sinner forced to wander without hope of rest in death till the millennium, impressed itself upon the popular imagination and passed thence into literary art; mainly with reference to the seeming immortality of the wandering Hebrew race. The legend has been the subject of a great number of poems of several novels and tragedies.

Hans Andersen made his "Hans Andersen" the Angel of Death, and was imitated by Heller in a poem on "The Wandering of Haeasaurus," which he afterwards developed into three cantos. Robert Hammerling in his "Haeasaurus in Rome" identifies Nero with the "Wandering Jew." In France, E. Quinet published his prose epic of the legend in 1833, making the subject the judgment of the world, and Eugene Sue wrote his "Jaff Eran" (The Wandering Jew) in 1844.

"Be good and you'll be happy."
"Yes, that's quite well understood.
But don't forget, old chaps,
That other proverb snappy:
Be happy and you'll be good."

Oct. 2

On the 22nd of April, 1774, the "Wandering Jew," or an individual who impersonated him, appeared in Brussels where he told his story to the "bourgeois," but he had changed his name and now called himself Isaac Laquedem. From that time until with two years the "Wandering Jew" has not been heard from, but a person representing himself as such astonished Germany several years ago. In the present day enlightenment such an impostor has not even a chance to get any cheap notoriety. It seems odd how this story has been kept afloat for so many years, and in spite of all that has been written upon it, no one knows how it originated.

How to Destroy the Dandruff Germ

BY A SPECIALIST
That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, heartily pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will fill it up for you, at a ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Cayenne, 1 ounce Composita, one-half ounce Menthol Crystals, Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add half a teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

FIREBAUGH UNIQUE AMONG THE COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Never Has Had a Graduate—Children At Play Speak In Italian

Superintendent Lindsay reports at Firebaugh a condition unique among the school districts of the county. The district has never had a graduate and has an eighth grade, its highest graded class has been the last month and this year it was not even that.

There are fifty pupils at this term with the most advanced in the sixth grade. The children are mostly of Italian parentage and at play in the school yard with each other communicating in that language. The first year termers are told that do not know a word of English, so that Miss Ruby La Rose, the teacher, instructs them by the picture, object and sign methods.

The district has a practically equipped school yard with swings, slides, merry-go-round, teeter-board and revolving platform in the use of which apparatus the children take infinite delight.

Superintendent Lindsay and Miss Ruby La Rose are daily out on school visits, the intention being during the year to make a record of two or more visits to every school district to keep in close touch with the work in the outlying districts.

On Tuesday Mr. Lindsay visited six schools, namely, Elkhart, Liberty, Princeton, Duke, Central and Franklin, located almost on a straight line across the county, while Deputy Balch visited Clark's Valley, Frankwood and Centerville, and yesterday was at Firebaugh.

LOWER COURTS TO CLOSE FOR FAIR

The three lower courts—the police court and the offices of the two justices of the peace—will be closed this afternoon to permit the magistrates and the court attaches to attend the Fresno District Fair on "Fresno Day." No important cases have been set down for trial this afternoon, and there will be no inconvenience in closing the courts of justice from 2 to 5. The city schools will close their doors Friday noon in order to permit teachers and students to attend the fair.

MALAGA SHIPMENTS 20 CARS PER DAY

Auction Returns Averaging About $1,000; 850 Cars of Tokay Out of Lodi

Malaga grapes are being shipped out of this district at the rate of about 20 cars a day, although it is expected that there will be a decided falling off today as the marketing of many of the plants are planning to attend the Fresno fair. The returns from the eastern auction markets show that the gross is averaging about $1,000 a car. The shippers are very much pleased and anxious for a decided advance within a very few days. It is not probable that there will be any material change in prices the balance of this week, but increases are expected next week.

The Lodi district has shipped out about 850 cars of grapes thus far this season and has about 400 cars more to be shipped. The fruit has been moving out at the rate of about 30 cars a day.

Lodi shippers expect to see the bulk of the Tokay crop shipped out of the Lodi district within the next week or ten days and then they expect to resume Malaga shipping in considerable quantities.

The latest report has it that 45 has been offered for Emperor grapes and that contracts to this effect have been made. H. V. Rudy, is reported to have asserted that he has made contracts at this figure.

KEEPING RECORD OF RURAL PARCEL POST

If Increase Is Large Over Last Year Raise May Be Given Carriers

A record of the number of pieces and the weight of parcel post packages handled by rural carriers at the post office will be kept for the months of October and November to compare with the corresponding months in 1912. The amount of additional work being done by the rural carriers if the additional work is of sufficient importance the government may give a raise to the rural carriers in proportion to the work that is being done.

FRESNO PLAYGROUNDS ASSOCIATION DISBANDED

$126 In Treasury Is Turned Over to Commission Recently Created

The Fresno Playgrounds Association met yesterday afternoon, voted to give $126 in its treasury to the playgrounds commission and adjourned sine die. The money is turned over to the commission without restrictions, to use as it deems best in the improvement of the playgrounds.

The disbanding of this organization was decided upon following the creation of the playgrounds commission, because there was no further use for its existence.

The association collected and disbursed about $1,000 in playgrounds work, in the course of its existence. The money was largely secured from voluntary subscriptions and entertainments.

Upwards to a hundred others are listed for inspection today.

AUTO POLO GAMES.
Auto polo exhibitions for the first time in Fresno kept the five thousand spectators in a constant uproar. The thrilling and daring feats of the Reds and Blues with their little machines and the big medicine ball afforded an entertaining novelty never seen before in this city. This is by far the best feature long at free attraction yet exhibited at the fair. Two exhibitions were given, one yesterday afternoon and the other last night.

Two light cars stripped of all except running boards, are used. Iron loops over the rear of the machines protect the pilot and mallet man in case the cars should turn turtle.

For exhibition purposes, a seventy-five yard space in front of the grandstand was measured with two goals, one at each end. A large, soft leather ball, similar to a medicine ball, is used, the object being to knock the ball through the opponent's goal. Each goal counts one point.

Two men, a pilot and a mallet man, comprise a team. The mallet men are permitted to hit the ball only when they are standing on the running boards of the machines.

In the afternoon game, the Reds defeated the Blues four goals to two, two ten minute periods composing the time of play. The victory of the Red car is due to the skillful manner in which the pilot handled the machine. On several occasions the Reds carried the ball the full length of the field for a goal.

In the evening contest, the Blues were victorious, five goals to three. Although the course was lighted, occupants of the grandstand could not follow the play as well as during the day owing to the smoke and dust.

Leland Peoples is the pilot of the red car, while Clark Hewitt is the mallet man. Rex Yonge handles the blue machine and Dan De Sylva is the mallet man.

THE DIVING ACT.
The diving girls, men and horses are one of the other free attractions which appeal to the people. In this act there are four persons, two men, two girls, and two horses, which dive either singly or in pairs from various heights, the lowest being 10 feet and the highest 80 feet. The two features of the act are the diving of Lorena Lorenz and "Pilu," the Indian girl, leap one hand each and with the other arm around one of the other's waist, make the dive together.

Several spectacular dives are made by the men and the girls, which include straight, back, somersault, both forward and backward, from various heights.

Exhibition of fancy swimming are also given. These consisted of the four imitation porpoises and frogs and doing other stunts in the water.

A diving girl and horse brought forth a great deal of applause as they climbed from the tank after their spectacular dive. A single horse which appeared new at the game from his attractions, also created a great deal of interest for the audience.

ATOS THAT PASS.
The crowd which pass in the air came near making a "real news story" this afternoon when the machine with its occupant, that turns somersaults while in the air landed a little far to one side of the platform and started to roll toward the left, passed through a small ditch and hit an electric line post.

A heavy force nearly knocking its driver over the dash board and wrecking the car.

The "Fearless Greggs," as the two men are styled who take part in this act, are styled, get in separate machines which are suspended on a track about 40 feet in the air, when they leap a short distance on an incline and leap a short distance in the air to a spring platform. While the first machine is leaping the gap, the other arises into the air and before it lights makes two complete somersaults and lights with a heavy thud on the platform.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY.
The fireworks display last night was considered by many people as being the best pyrotechnical exhibition ever seen at a district fair in this city. There were 44 separate numbers, many of which contained several pieces, in mass, which lasted upward to an hour after the other evening free attractions in the fair.

The feature number was the Boston Ten Party which opened with the British ship "Caspine" lying on its side at anchor in the stream near Boston Harbor. The "Ten Party" disguised as Indians row out to the vessel, board it, throw the tea overboard and depart.

As their small boat leaves, the ship catches fire and blows up. The illuminations lit up the grounds in many directions while the firing of the bombs and imitation cannon could be heard within the city limits. Other spectacular numbers the illustrated nursery rhyme with comedy features, "Dickory-Dickory-Do," the Kachidokes, the court of honor, a colonnade of fireworks pillars with illuminated garlands suspended, the Silver Pampas, and a triple set of gold fountains changing to silver.

The most delightful of the early season's functions was the dinner dance at which the members of the Sunnyvale Country club assembled last night, after the long summer's cessation of social activity. It was a gay scene, with the interior of the handsome club house prettily decorated with a wealth of fragrant La France roses, the host of the club garden, and here many of the members gathered, and later the list was supplemented by other members who came out for a pleasant evening of informal dancing which was enjoyed, within doors, the chill of the evening preventing the use of the al fresco dancing platform.

Among the club members who assembled "round the board" were Messrs. and Mesdames DeVitt, H. Gray, W. W. Cross, L. L. Nares, A. Dyer, H. M. Romann, H. W. Swift, H. J. Craycroft, W. W. Craycroft, J. A. Fiske, J. L. Maupin, Montgomery Thomas, H. Wingate Lake, T. P. Patterson, W. Parker Lyon, Frank H. Short, Calvin Hill, W. J. Cleary, Milton Drayton, Ward Minton, E. A. Walrand, H. T. Trowbridge, Mrs. C. B. Shaver, J. P. Jernhard.

Miss Nancy Hope Webster will be a youthful hostess on Friday evening, when she will entertain a little party of friends at a house dance at the J. A. Webster home on Fresno street.

Mr. Hume, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hume, is well known in Fresno, where he has lived since boyhood. He attended the local schools, being a graduate of the high school, and for several years has been in business for himself. Mr. and Mrs. Hume are to spend a short honeymoon in the Bay cities, and are expected to return to Fresno about the middle of the month to take possession of an attractive new home on Coast avenue. bride and her sister were visiting a few seasons ago.

A diminutive hostess was little Miss Louis Gundelfinger yesterday afternoon, when she extended her hospitality to the aid of her proxy, her mother, Mrs. Emil Gundelfinger, in nearly a score of little folk who were bidden to celebrate her second birthday.

Childish games gave ample entertainment for the little ones until the refreshment hour, when the happy group was seated at a big round table that was most attractively decked. A fish pond in the center contained mysteriously wrapped packages that disclosed novel favors suitable for the occasion, and view in claiming interest with the delicious birthday cake with its twin candles.

Mrs. S. L. Platt has as her house guest her sister, Mrs. D. M. Garner, of Pasadena.

Mrs. L. A. Whipple left last night for Fowler, where she will visit Mrs. Amos Harris for a short while.

FOUR MAIL CLERKS FOR FRESNO OFFICE

Additional Men Are Put to Work Immediately By Postmaster Hughes

Four additional clerks have been allowed Postmaster Earl Hughes by the postmaster general in Washington, according to information received in Fresno yesterday. The clerks were to work immediately upon receipt of the order, as they were already working in the office. E. G. Arnold, Fred Taylor, J. C. Maloney and Owen Turner are the new clerks. The first two have been auxiliary clerks and the last two have been substitutes at the postoffice so that all are experienced in the work. While the local post office has been allowed four additional clerks, as a matter of fact it only amounts to two new men, as the auxiliary clerks are taken away and made into regular clerks. These men have always been employed at the post office, because their services have been necessary. Postmaster Hughes intends to take one of the experienced clerks in the office and appoint him acting foreman of the city and rural deliveries until the appointment can be confirmed at Washington. So sifted down the postmaster has been granted four new men by the Washington office, but in reality he will only have one more mail clerk.

WOMAN SLAYER TELLS SAD STORY ON STAND

Former Fresno Girl Is Her Own Witness in Trial At Martinez Before Conley

In the Tonsing murder trial at Martinez before Judge Conley of Madera, the defendant, Mrs. Castevens, a former Fresno girl, known as Mrs. Tonsing, was on the stand in her own behalf and recounted a sad tale of cruelty practiced towards her by the man she shot. Her story was to the effect that she had never been married to Tonsing. She was the wife of Albert Castevens and a child now living. She came to Richmond about a year ago and entered the employ of a Mrs. Peterson. After she had been a resident of Richmond for a short time she was approached by Tonsing, who asked her to come and live with him at his mother's home. She consented, and first she went to Tonsing's mother and talked with her about the matter. Mrs. Tonsing gave her consent and so she moved into the Tonsing home and became known in Richmond as the wife of the dead man. On the evening of the murder she visited the skating rink and found Tonsing with another woman. She persuaded him to come home, and arriving there laid her pistol on a table. Tonsing tried to get possession of it, and there was a tussle. The weapon was discharged, and Tonsing fell to the floor. She had no recollection of pulling the trigger, and stated she had no intention of shooting. After she realized she had mortally wounded Tonsing, she took the weapon and shot herself. On re-direct examination, many acts of cruelty were brought out, and the recital caused the defendant to faint in court, and a recess was taken of fifteen minutes. When court was resumed, her attorney dropped this line of questioning.

"CITY BEAUTIFUL" MEETING FRIDAY

Committee To Start Work of Selecting Members of Board

The meeting of the committee which is to select the members of the City Beautiful committee has been postponed until tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. It was to have been held tonight, but as this is Fresno Day at the fair it was decided to postpone the meeting one day.

M. M. Prescott, secretary of the committee, reported yesterday that there already had been submitted some seventy-five or eighty names, as the suggestions of individuals and organizations for membership on the committee. All these names will be gone over by the committee.

While tentative selections can be made by the nominating committee on Friday night, it is not probable that any appointments will be announced until after the meeting has been held. The members of the committee realize that it is difficult to get competent people to serve.

It may be a week or more before the full committee is announced.

While many suggestions have come into the hands of W. W. Phillips and E. M. Prescott as to plans for beautifying the city, they will all be held until the organization of the City Beautiful committee and will then be turned over to this organization for its consideration.

APPRAISED TOO HIGH TO FACILITATE SALE

A third appraisal was ordered yesterday by Judge Austin in the estate of Frank Haven of one and one-half lots in Santa Addition, discovered as additional property of the estate after the original inventory. Effort is being made to place a present value on them governed by the actual conditions so that the administrator may sell them.

The original appraisal of $3,000 was so high that no purchaser could be found. A second one fixed $250 as the value and yet no sale could be made within 10 per cent of that valuation, though three reliable real estate dealers had the property in hand, the property remaining vacant for six months and not an offer being received. Meanwhile the property is depreciating and the $250 mortgage stands.

ASK TO ISSUE STOCK FOR DEBTS OF LINE

Directors of Interurban Make Application to Commission

Directors of the Fresno, Hanford & Summit Lake Railway Company appeared before the railroad commission Tuesday afternoon and filed an application for authority to issue $225,000 of preferred stock, with which to retire an old bond issue of $98,000 and to provide additional money for the construction of an interurban from this city to Soledad. The application has been taken under consideration and announcement is expected in a short time. Directors and promoters of the road sent word to Fresno yesterday that they would return tonight or in the morning.

Director John Somers and W. D. Mitchell left Fresno last week to appear before the commission Friday, but as Commissioner Loveland was in Los Angeles the hearing was postponed until Tuesday of this week. Attorney H. P. Brown was present as the legal representative of the road. L. S. Jones, the new manager, was also present.

The application to issue preferred stock for the indebtedness of the road is one of the suggestions made by the railroad commissioners and the proceedings Tuesday were simply carrying out the routine work after the amount of the indebtedness had been ascertained.

Vell Defiance at Blood Disorders

A Remedy That Has Shown a Most Remarkable Purifying Effect.

At Last You Can Get Rid of Blood Trouble—S. S. S.

The word Medicine is one of the most abused in our language. There are certain medicinal properties just as necessary to health as the food we eat. Take for example, the well-known medicine S. S. S. This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the elements of wheat, roast beef, and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming Rheumatism, Catarrh of the Stomach and Intestines, skin eruptions and all blood troubles.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive antitoxic effect upon all those irritating influences that cause sore throat, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks and that weariness-of-things-and-nerve-the-leaden-ness many people fall into the dangerous path of stimulants and narcotics.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 215 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient medical department where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may consult freely.

S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores. Don't permit anyone to sell you a substitute. Insist upon S. S. S.

California Oil

STANDARD PIPE LINE BUSINESS IS RELATED

Big Company Gives State Complete Details of Extent of Its Lines

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The Standard Oil Company has related to the Railroad Commission to what extent it is interested in pipe lines in California, to what capacity its pipes are being operated, and the reasons why it prefers not to handle heavy oil in the pipes. These facts were given in the course of the investigation of the commission preliminary to placing the pipe line companies under state control.

H. L. Storey, the director of the pipe line operations of the company was on the stand throughout the forenoon. He explained that the company did not care to transport oil under 15 gravity because it had to be handled differently than the higher gravity oils. The company divided oils into classes for sending through the pipes. The general run averaged 24 gravity. When 15 gravity oil is to be run, it is gathered into batches of from 250,000 to 500,000 barrels, and never has a less quantity than 100,000 barrels of low gravity oil been sent through the pipes. Weeks elapse between the times that the batches of low gravity oils are transported.

All of the crude oils are heated preparatory to going through the pipes. The low gravity oils are heated to about 165 degrees Fahrenheit so they will run easily.

The pipe line details of the company, as explained by Storey, are as follows:

Pico to Ventura, length 44.19 miles, some of two-inch and some of three-inch pipe. Capacity 1400 barrels daily. Field produces about 2000 barrels, of which the standard production is 200 barrels. Oil all used at the El Segundo or Richmond refineries.

Bakersfield to Richmond, 280.6 miles of duplicated 8-inch line, with 64 miles of 12-inch loop north of Mendota. Total capacity about 65,000 barrels daily, operated at full capacity. Company produces 38,000 barrels of this, and is buying about 50,000 barrels a day, storing at Waukegan, but not sent through the pipes. Total output of the field served by the line about 265,000 barrels a day.

Coalinga to Mendota, 29.2 miles of 8-inch pipe with 20 miles of 6-inch loop. Capacity 25,000 barrels a day, and about 23,000 barrels daily is being sent through the pipes. Oil averages 21 gravity. The Coalinga field produces about 55,000 barrels a day, of which 2000 barrels is produced by the Standard Oil.

Northridge, Orange county, to El Segundo, 23.09 miles of 6-inch pipe. Capacity is 9000 barrels a day, about one-fifth of which is produced on the company's land. Operating at full capacity. Oil runs 23 gravity.

Midway to Bakersfield, two 8-inch lines, with a 12-inch loop. Line 23.3 miles of 8-inch and 14.4 miles of 12-inch pipe. Capacity 65,000 barrels a day, and the line used to full capacity. Company producing about 35,000 barrels a day in this field, the gravity being 23 or 24.

Orcutt to Port San Luis, 32.52 miles of 8-inch pipe. Capacity 20,000 barrels a day. The company is not handling in excess of 500 barrels a day, so that this pipe is practically idle. No Santa Maria oil to be had.

Lost Hills to Pico, 21.1 miles of 8-inch pipe. Capacity 20,000 barrels a day. About 5000 barrels being handled. Storey intimated that the construction of pipe lines to Lost Hills by the Standard and its competitors had never been warranted by the business.

Storey also gave the details of the storage capacity of the company along the various lines, saying that it was

RESIGNS POSITION TO ENTER OIL BUSINESS

Supt. Scott, of Lakeview
No. 2 Is Succeeded By Walter Barnhart

MARICOPA, Oct. 1.—Lee Scott, who for the last three years has superintended the operations of the Lakeview Number 2 Oil Company, at the Santa Rita field, tendered his resignation to the directors of the company last week with a request that he be relieved from duty not later than October 1st. The resignation was accepted to take place on that date and as a successor to Mr. Scott, Walter J. Barnhart was chosen to take charge of the work.

Mr. Barnhart is well known on the West Side, and in the Santa Maria fields, where he has been identified with the oil business since his boyhood days. He started in as a boy working in the Santa Maria field and learned every branch of the business, working his way up from a helper to the position of superintendent of drilling for the Lakeview Oil Company which position he was filling when offered the superintendency of the Lakeview Number 2 Oil Company. Although one of the youngest men holding a responsible position in this field, Mr. Barnhart has done much creditable work and with the opportunities offered in the future as head of the Lakeview Number 2 Oil Company will take a leading part in the development of the Maricopa flat.

Mr. Scott will devote his time for the next few months toward promoting a company to take over one of the well known leases on the flat, and expects to be operating a company in which he will be largely interested in the near future. His experience as an oil man dates back for 20 years, when he followed the business in Texas and Louisiana, where he worked in the Gulf fields until coming to the West Side in February 1910. He accepted a position as superintendent of the Lakeview Number 2 Oil Company, and drilled his first well for them on section 28, putting a hole down 4555 feet without encountering any oil of commercial value. The well was completed in less than six months, and was put down at a cost of less than $50,000.

His first fact established a new record for drilling cheaply. In September, 1912, when the company took over the Pentland Union lease, on section 4, 11-23, he was placed in charge and started a new well known as the No. 2, and completed it and brought it in as a gusher on January 23, 1913. Since that time the well has broken and set records for that territory and has produced over 150,000 barrels of oil. At times the flow has ranged as high as 8000 barrels again dropping to 500 barrels and has been off from the producing list but a few days in the eight months of its life. It also established a record for being drilled at a smaller cost than any well in the vicinity and is now one of the few wells that has been brought in without being ruined by water.

In March 1913 No. 3 well was started on the property and is now standing at a depth of 2700 feet. It has been drilled through the producing sand and was cased to shut off the bottom water. Mr. Scott is considered one of the best rotary men in the field and has made a signal success in drilling with the rotary outfit, having done much to prove their efficiency in the territory surrounding Maricopa.

Mr. Scott and family have moved from the home to Maricopa and are living in the Thomas house on South Kern street.

Small except at Waukegan, where there is capacity for from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 barrels of oil. He promised to provide the state with all details as to where the lines cross public highways and railroads.

Expert engineering evidence will be produced to show the difficulties of handling low gravity oil, this being one of the points of disagreement between Timothy Spillacy and other producers of low gravity oil and the pipe line companies.

G. P. TO REDRILL WELL AT MARICOPA

MARICOPA, Oct. 1.—The General Petroleum Company has made arrangements to redrill the No. 2 well on the Essex Division, on section 6, 11-23, and will carry the 8-inch casing with which the well was finished at the 1870 foot sand, down to the light oil strata found in that territory at a depth of 1970 feet. The well has been on the producing list for several months. It is thought that the lower sand will make a better production and the difference in gravity of the oil will more than pay for the cost of deepening the hole.

USE DYNAMITE TO DISLodge SOCKET

TAFI, Oct. 1.—A set of lost jars and a socket has been giving Supt. L. Metcalf of the Empire Gas and Fuel Company, on section 15, 22-5, much trouble in the past few days. The obstructions defying all sorts of fishing tools. Dynamite was resorted to Friday, a 12 foot shell being placed at a depth of 2830 feet. The shot was put to form a pocket below the obstructions that might be dropped into it and the drilling allowed to proceed.

The Lockwood System of Dentistry Without Pain

LECTURE No. 81.

Bridgework

There are doubtless many people that realize they are in need of bridgework and appreciate the advantages of having it done. The reason they do not have it done is the fear of pain. The prevailing idea is that the operations necessary to prepare the mouth for bridgework is accomplished by the infliction of considerable pain.

With MY SYSTEM it is not necessary for the patient to endure any pain at all. In a measure this accounts for the great amount of bridgework that I do. I have made a specialty of bridgework for fifteen years and have gained an enviable reputation for doing this work in a manner that ensures satisfaction and permanency of the work. My prices are moderate.

A man wouldn't think of going hundreds of miles for lumber and mill work, when we have planing mills and lumber yards so close at hand, and neither should you, Mr. Architect, Mr. Structural Engineer, Mr. Contractor and Mr. Builder, expect to buy massive steel building material to an advantage, when it has to be shipped any great distance.

By buying direct from the world's largest steel mills, and by reason of our modern manufacturing facilities, and our central location, we can guarantee the most prompt deliveries.

Central California's Best Equipped Foundry

In connection with our immense iron and steel working plant, we have an iron foundry, that in point of equipment and character of work produced, is not surpassed in Central California, if on the entire Coast.

REMARKABLE ACTS PLAY AT PRINCESS

HAROLD BROWNE AND MISS WILLA TURNER IN "THE CROSS AND THE WAGON" AT PRINCESS.

"The Cross and the Wagon," a polished, thrilling, melodramatic romance of old Mexico embracing a vendetta of the olden days, is the exceptional feature of the new program at the Princess theater, which will appear for the remainder of the week. While it is true the plot is melodrama of the most pronounced type, it is of the polished, sincere sort which has not the thin gloss of cheap drama. A most realistic knife fight arouses the feeling of the witness to a high degree. The characters are a bandit and a Mexican girl, who follow the bandit's mission. He is hiding in an old mission and she, the victim of an accident near the place, is carried into the mission. She learns that the man has killed two persons and discovers that he is the murderer of her father and mother.

The first made gave a great deal of trouble and their work was far from satisfactory. Years of experiments and experience, however, have given better results and it is now possible to obtain a manure spreader which will give absolute satisfaction and at a reasonable price. Such a machine is the Litchfield Down Low Spreader.

The best results are obtained by fertilizing just before the rains. Now is the time for your consideration on this most important subject.

A good idea of its value may be gathered from the fact that both government and private tests have shown that fertilizer produced by a single cow in one year is equal in value to the cow itself.

SETTLE DISPUTE OVER CHILD AFTER DIVORCE

The custody of a minor child which was one of the subjects of contention for more than a year in the case of Lenn F. Anderson against W. F. Anderson was amicably settled yesterday. The divorce sought by her was denied by Judge Austin, whereupon he sued and a few days ago was given the decree by Judge Church. She now comes into court to agree to vacate the previous orders made—that he not be required to pay her the $25 alimony due monthly and that the care of the child be left at the will of the parties. She stipulated these things when he sued for the divorce last August.

500" of Frederick L. Colwell. Gray testified that Colwell had told him this account was Gov. Sulzer's. Gray also said he had contributed through Colwell to the governor's campaign fund upon a representation that it would bring him business and that one time Colwell said a bond he purchased was for a woman. The broker declared he could not recall the name of the woman.
Attorneys for the managers expressed themselves tonight as well pleased. Now that the direct testimony is all in, Attorney Kiesel said that no further effort would be made to locate "the mysterious woman" in the case. She is Miss Bessie Colwell, a relative of Frederick L. Colwell. The board of managers wanted her chiefly to testify regarding the whereabouts of Colwell, but they also intended to question her as to her knowledge of his stock deals for the governor.
"Counsel for the board is satisfied," said Kiesel. "We feel that we have shown almost everything we promised. Some ground which still is to be covered, will be gone over on re-direct examination."
"Why did we not call Sarecky? He was a hostile witness to our side of the case. When he is called by the defense, if he ever is, we shall question him. We also shall interrogate Colwell at length if he is called."

E. E. KIRK PARDONED

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—E. E. Kirk, attorney of San Diego, serving a six months' sentence in the San Diego county jail on a charge of conspiracy, was pardoned today by Governor Johnson. Kirk has been in jail since July 1. He was arrested in August, 1912, with Attorney McKee and convicted of violating street speaking ordinances. McKee was recently pardoned and appeared before the governor last week to ask for executive clemency for his companion.

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Treatment Ends Itching and Heals Skin Eruption.
"Brooklyn, N. Y.—At first little red spots were seen on my arms and body, which I noticed were getting larger every day. They itched me so much that I scratched myself until I bled. There were times when I stood up all night and scratched. I was troubled about three weeks, during which time I used Resinol, which seemed to do me no good whatever. Then, finally, I thought of trying Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. As soon as I applied Resinol Ointment I felt much relief. After using it a few times, I noticed the sore spots slowly fading away, and in about a month I was cured completely."
(Signed) Adolph Schoen, 742 Shepherd Ave., Nov. 1, 1912.
Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which was so unusually successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other physicians all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. INSURGENTS LEAVE PIEDRAS NEGRAS

but operations from Washington went from the War Department today to Brigadier General Bliss, commanding the United States border forces. Full advice have been received from General Bliss and Consul Blocker concerning the critical situation existing at Piedras Negras as a result of its practical evacuation by the Constitutionalists before the advancing Federals but the Washington administration is confident there will be no developments to make necessary a departure from its settled policy of non-intervention.
As the result of several conferences between Consul Blocker, Major Caldwell, commanding the American troops at Eagle Pass, Texas, and the Constitutional officers at Piedras Negras, it was arranged that the Constitutionalists would not attempt to destroy either of the international bridges here. This had been demanded on the ground that the bridges were necessary to insure the safety of Americans and other foreign residents in Piedras Negras.
The instructions to General Bliss would not operate to prevent American troops from returning any fire that may be directed upon them from the Mexican side, such as might be incident to the use of force to defend the bridges and keep them open. Several days ago General Bliss was authorized at his own request to take care of any of the Mexican wounded of either side that should come across the river. This authorization it was said at the State Department, was quite sufficient to warrant the general-in-taking under his care the six carloads of wounded Constitutionalists reported to have been sent across the Rio Grande this afternoon by the fleeing rebels.
TO DETAIN SOLDIERS.
Regarding the disposition of the large number of refugees who are trying to cross the bridges at Eagle Pass, it was said at the State Department, that as many of them as bear arms or are undoubtedly soldiers, would be "detained" by American military officers while the immigration inspectors and customs men deal with the civilian refugees.
Department officials say that the situation at Piedras Negras, while interesting, is by no means serious nor does it threaten to involve hostilities between the American and Mexican armies at that point. Expert army opinion here is that while the rebels have been incredibly slow in developing the attack on the rebels in Coahuila they probably have succeeded completely in their campaign and as a result except for a small force of Constitutionalists at Matamoros, opposite Brownsville, Tex., the rebels have lost possession of the entire border of Mexico west of Sonora. In which case General Carranza has made his temporary headquarters.

SALE OF BORAX SMITH HOLDINGS IS REPORTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The Chronicle says today that negotiations virtually have been completed for the sale of F. M. Smith's entire holdings of borax stock to a syndicate of English capitalists headed by R. C. Baker, one of the directors of the Borax Consolidated company of London. As a result of the sale, according to the paper's announcement, Smith, who long has held the title of "Borax King," will be enabled to meet obligations resulting from his enforced withdrawal from the control of the United Properties company and other financial enterprises.

SYNDICATE OF ENGLISH CAPITALISTS MAY TAKE OVER HOLDINGS

Smith owns 25 per cent of the stock of the Pacific Coast Borax company, which corporation holds 51 per cent of the stock of the Borax Consolidated, of London, the holding company in which Smith is said personally to hold 25 per cent of the stock. The remaining stock of the holding company is owned by Baker and his associates.
According to the Chronicle, the price to be paid Smith is estimated at about $3,000,000.

NEGRO IS CLEARED OF MURDER CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 1.—Robert Askew stands today practically cleared of any charges in connection with the murder of Mrs. Rebecca F. Gay, Christian Science practitioner. The negro probably will be released in a few days after he serves a term for drunkenness.
All circumstantial evidence against him disappeared when persons who had seen the mysterious negro who loitered around the murdered woman's office declared Askew was not the man. The police investigation has turned to finding the unidentified negro, and into other angles of the case.
A mysterious "Mrs. Wallace" continued to be sought. It was her name which frequently was used by the negro in his visits to Mrs. Gay's and neighboring offices. A certain Mrs. Wallace known to Mrs. Gay disappeared mysteriously on the morning after the murder—it was made known today.

CHICAGO TO HANDLE ITS OWN GARBAGE

City Faced Serious Problem Because of Strike of Private Company

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—An emergency measure to provide for disposing of the city's garbage, accumulating at the rate of 700 tons a day, was passed by the city council tonight. Collection of the city's refuse stopped yesterday when the city refused to take over the plant of the Chicago Reduction Company at the company's price.
The relief measure was the plan of Mayor Harrison and provides for the purchase of land in the northwest where garbage will be disposed of by means of chemicals. The ordinance carried an appropriation of $225,000 for the purchase of the property.
Disposal of the city's garbage became an emergency problem today as a result of the refusal of the city to accede to the ultimatum of the Chicago Reduction Company and take over their plant at the company's figures last night. The city's garbage, a normal day's collection, was left today in yards and alleys while the plant of the company was practically idle.
Many of the aldermen expressed themselves in favor of seizing the reduction plant by force. Mayor Harrison did not believe this plan feasible, however.
Health Commissioner Young issued a statement giving assurances that the situation will not jeopardize the public health if immediate action is taken.

WAWONA ROUTE OPEN NEXT YEAR

Semi-Official Information Regarding Road Sent To San Francisco

That the Madera-Wawona road into the Yosemite National Park, will be opened to automobiles next year is the statement made by the San Francisco Bulletin. The Bulletin has the following to say regarding the opening of the route:

Madera-Wawona road will be opened next season to automobiles entering the Yosemite Park.

"This is the result of the recent visit to the park by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Miller, a visit mainly due to the broadside facts and illustrations presented in the Bulletin several weeks ago. The Bulletin's exhibit made it so plain that the Wawona road was the most desirable and accessible of all approaches to the park that its claims could be no longer ignored at Washington.

"Assistant Secretary Miller demonstrated, according to private advice from Washington, that the Bulletin's presentation of the desirability of the Wawona road as an automobile thoroughfare was absolutely accurate in every detail. Dr. Miller left the hotel at Wawona early one morning, motored to Glacier Point by way of Chingulpin, lunch, visited the Mariposa Big Tree grove immediately after lunch, called at Ahwahnee, Course Gold and Raymond, dined in Madera for an hour or more and caught a train out of there early in the evening. He could have been in the San Francisco the same day that he visited cardinal points of interest in the Yosemite National Park.

ORDER EXPECTED SOON.

"It is expected the order will be made very soon, although it would not be effective until next season. The Wawona road is not accessible, on account of late snows, until after the first week in June. The Yosemite Stage and Turpike company desires to improve it at certain points, and although there is not much work to be done that work can be done best during October or the first half of November. It is put off until next June the first season in which automobiles may enter the park over the Wawona road would be unfortunately shortened. Mr. Miller, to whom Secretary Lane has delegated supervision of all national parks, understands this condition. It is anticipated by the owners of the road and by motorists north and south that there will be a tremendous rush for the Wawona entrance to the park as soon as the order is effective. The traffic far exceeding that which sought the Coulterville road this year. Scores of motor parties went to Madera this summer under the misapprehension that they would be allowed to enter the park by that route.

"Somewhat correlated with this matter is a complaint of Edwin T. Huffman of San Francisco, proprietor of Miami Lodge, a new camping, fishing and hotel resort at the edge of the park, and owner of the Yosemite auto stage line which connects with trains at Madera, that the Southern Pacific, being allied with the Drum interest in the Yosemite Valley Railroad, has been flagrantly discriminating against his stage line and ticket agents to inform tourists that the only way to get into the Yosemite is by way of Merced.

WILL GET AFFIDAVITS.

"Mr. Huffman has taken the matter up with Los Angeles motor interests and the Madera Chamber of Commerce and has agreed to furnish affidavits of persons who applied at Southern Pacific ticket offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco for transportation to the Yosemite by way of Madera and were informed by the Southern Pacific agents that they could not reach the park through Madera, but would have to go to Merced and there transfer to the Yosemite Valley Railroad. When these affidavits are forthcoming the case will be laid before the Railroad Commission in proper form of procedure.

"A campaign is now under way in the mid-San Joaquin Valley to secure the improvement by the State of the road through the Pacheco Pass, so that the coast and valley lines of the State Highway will be connected by a first-class automobile road and the distance from San Francisco to the Yosemite National Park will be shortened, by way of San Jose, Gilroy, Los Banos and across Madera county.

URGE PRESIDENT TO SUPPORT HETCH HETCHY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The California delegation in Congress today urged President Wilson to support the bill granting water power rights to the city of San Francisco in the Hetch Hetchy valley. The bill was passed by the House and is expected to pass the Senate, although strong pressure is being brought to bear against it by those who contend the project will be injurious to Yosemite Park.

HAS $5,000,000 IN PERSONAL PROPERTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—John D. Rockefeller owns more personal property than any other one man in New York City, according to the personal tax assessments for 1913, made public today. Rockefeller's personal property is assessed at $5,000,000. Other personal property assessments were:

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., $355,000; William Rockefeller, $300,000; Thomas F. Ryan, $200,000; Mrs. Russell Sage, $185,000; Herbert L. Satterlee, $100,000; Jacob H. Schiff, $100,000; James Spry, $200,000; Herman Steichen, $500,000.

MANY CASES FOR CUSTOMS COURT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Just as the House was sliding the new tariff bill on the ways of enactment into law, the United States court of customs appeals today convened its full term with 115 cases on the docket involving numerous interpretations of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act of 1909, which will pass into history before the close of the week. An effort will be made to expedite the cases, involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, to clear the decks for the many intricate questions of law expected to arise in the administration of the Underwood-Simmons measure.

Make This and Try It for Coughs

This Home-Made Remedy has no Equal for Prompt Results.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup—shake a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually conquers an ordinary cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup and bronchitis. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in quinine and other natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this plan.

Making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada, that it is often imitated. But the old, successful mixture has never been equalled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

FOUR MAN TEAM FROM FRESNO Y. M.TO COMPETE WITH ATHLETES OF COAST IN BIG TRACK MEET AT PORTOLA FETE

The greatest opportunity that has been presented Fresno track athletes for many years is made possible by Charles H. Toose, new physical director of the Young Men's Christian Association, through whose efforts permission has been secured from the Portola Athletic committee to enter four men from this city in the big events during all expenses to be paid by the Portola committee. A communication to that effect was received yesterday afternoon by Director Toose.

A try-out will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next week of all the track runners and athletes that Fresno affords to get material for the selection of a four man team. No athlete is barred by not being a member of the Association.

Though Fresno has been more or less represented at the interscholastic meets which have been held at Stanford or Berkeley, it has never participated in as large a meet as this comprising athletes from all over the Pacific Coast. The Portola track and field championships are to be held under the official sanction of the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at the Golden Gate park stadium on Saturday, October 25.

Director Toose will endeavor to select four men to run in the four man relay of 440 yards to each runner, and also to take part in several other short dashes or longer runs. It is probable that no attempt will be made to capture any field events.

Interest in athletics, which has been dormant in Fresno for a long while, is expected to revive and a point-winning team is evolved if any man a prominent place for Fresno in athletic circles in the future.

Through his personal acquaintance with Secretary Herbert Hunter of the Portola Athletic Committee, with whom he was associated in much of his work in Oakland that Director Toose was enabled to get permission to enter the Fresno athletes at the expense of the festival committee. The letter received from Secretary Hunter follows:

Oakland, Sept. 30, 1913.
Dear Charlie: Your letter received and glad to hear you like your new position.

You may go ahead and arrange to bring up your four men for the Portola Track Meet on October 25, also come yourself. We will pay all expenses. Arrange to arrive here Saturday morning or, if you think best, Friday night. I got busy as soon as your letter arrived and the committee says it will be alright. This should be a boost for both the Y. M. C. A. and your city. I may visit Fresno the week after Portola as I am going to take my vacation then. If I do arrange this you can get up a big meeting and we will boost the game along. Send the four entries as soon as possible. Hoping to receive an early reply, I am,

Very truly yours,
(Signed) HERBERT HUNTER.

P. S. Send me photos of the four boys.

Director Toose is supplied with entry blanks for the Portola meet and as soon as the men are obtained will send the entries north.

PIONEERS AND EXPERT

Defense Claims That Water Has Not Affected Soil With Alkali

The features yesterday on the resumed second day's trial of the Kings River water appropriation cases of the Stinson Canal and Irrigation Company against the People's Ditch Company and the Lemore Canal and Irrigation Company and of the riparian right case of the Chubbuck-Burrell Company against the People's Ditch Company testimony describing pioneer conditions in the territory now covered by the water system, and expert evidence of the effects of alkali brought to the surface by the turning in of water all these years.

The pioneer testimony was given by the brothers A. J. and Matthew Rhodes, who in years are close to the age of 70 and who settled in the country near Lemore as far back as 1863 and 1866. They told of the natural and artificial water courses of the country, the brother Matthew distinctly recollecting the excavation of the Zaida canal by a band of some 50 or 60 Indians for S. C. Little. The brothers testified that there was in those days water in plenty from the Kings, water standing or flowing the year around in the meadows, in such quantity as to create swamps and making swimming necessary to cross slough or forks and that floods and submerison were common experiences.

In support of expert testimony given by W. K. Winterhalter, photographs were introduced to show the effect on grass and vegetation by alkali at the places from which soil samples were taken by F. E. Twining for chemical analysis, also map survey of the alkali belt and report on soil analysis. Expert Winterhalter summarized his testimony saying that alkali in the territory under consideration has not been the cause of deteriorating the productivity of the land any more noticeably than elsewhere in the San Joaquin valley or even in other states where irrigation is followed. True there are spots where the deterioration is apparent, but he attributed this condition not so much to the fact of irrigation as to the improper application of the water in the ignorance of the water user, as to harmful or remedial effects.

To save time in the long drawn out trial stipulation was made yesterday that all testimony introduced by either side be considered as applying to all cases where relevant or material.

Is attracting more attention than any other part of California. The large grain ranches are being cut up and sold for small farms. This land has been growing the finest of crops, this year from 30 to 50 bushels of grain per acre, and all with sub-irrigation. This year was the driest in 50 years, yet the crops on RIVERGARDEN FARMS were as big as usual. The Famous Senator Fair ranch is included in our tract, and it is one of the best known ranches in the entire state. It is rich river sediment soil, 35 feet deep, all silt. It is land that you cannot wear out, and that you can grow practically anything on. It is what we call "general purpose" land, which is so hard to find. Besides this, the land is

Sub-Irrigated

Which means that you save all the money usually spent for leveling, churning and running ditches. Our land is now smooth and level, and all you have to do to put in a crop is to plow. This year was the greatest test for sub-irrigation, and our land came out with flying colors. The great mistake some people make is in buying land that costs too much to get into cultivation. Lots of such land is mighty poor stuff when you do get it ready for crop. Why not buy good land at the start, save all your expensive preparation work, and get quick results. The land is adapted to all kinds of fruit and vegetables, and it positively cannot be beaten anywhere for

Alfalfa Land

You will agree with us when you see it. Think of growing alfalfa where you don't have the bother of irrigation, and don't have to cut and rake over check rows. You can farm twice the land with the same work. And sub-irrigation is sure, too. With river transportation to ship your alfalfa, you can get top notch prices for it. With river, rail and electric transportation to Sacramento and the San Francisco Bay Cities, the best markets to be had, you don't have to give your crops away. Highest market prices are paid for fruit, dairy products, poultry, eggs, etc. With rich land to raise them on, the buyer of RIVERGARDEN FARMS is bound to make good.

Rides Like Constant Coasting

Get That New Car Now

IF YOU have a car that you have said you will keep until prices come down, or until you can get a better allowance for your old car, consider these facts: Values now are greater than ever, as you will realize when you examine the Hudson-Six 54.

You never will get a better allowance for your used car than you can get now, because no greater allowance will be made by anyone with whom you can afford to deal, than can be got for that car.

If one dealer offers you $800 for your used car when another will give only $500, don't think that the one can get $300 more for that used car than the other. It merely means that he adds $300 cost to the new car. It means that the car he is selling you is priced high in order that he could take care of just such a transaction.

So, you see—you pay for what you think is your bargain. It is not real.

A Car Not Built for Trades

THE HUDSON Six 54 is not built for trades. It is priced at a figure that gives value and not deception. Dealers are not given extraordinary profits to be used in absorbing old cars so the buyer is led to think he is getting a bargain.

In appearance, in quality, in value, the Hudson Six 54 can be compared with any automobile at $3,000 or even $4,000.

Many would pay $4,000 for this car if that were its price. We would not sell so many, it is true, but if we followed that plan the dealer could make trades that would appear attractive to the man who does not inquire closely.

See the Streamline Hudson Six

DESPERATE EFFORTS TO DIG OUT MINER

Man Has Now Been Imprisoned In Earth for Six Days

CENTRALIA, Pa., Oct. 1. — Because of a heavy rainstorm today which threatened to loosen surface rock, extraordinary efforts were made tonight at the Continental Colliery to liberate Thomas Tosheky, the miner who was imprisoned by a fall of coal last Friday morning.

Mine Superintendent Heffner has started a number of men digging through a 50-foot pillar of coal at the bottom of a mine breach two and a half miles up the mountain from the breaker structure, and late tonight twenty feet had been dug away. Owing to the smallness of the opening, only one man at a time could work.

Tosheky from his prison, 100 feet below the surface informed Heffner tonight through the 50-foot tubing penetrating the coal breast from an adjoining chamber that he had his mining tools with him and that since his imprisonment he had dug away about three feet of the surrounding wall.

A physician who accompanied the mine superintendent conversed with Tosheky and cautioned him not to take too much exercise because of his weakened condition. The doctor feared that he might contract a cold and develop pneumonia.

Tosheky conversed with his would-be rescuers several times tonight and complained of being cold. A bottle of egg nog was sent down the tube. After drinking this the imprisoned miner said he felt more comfortable and requested an opportunity to talk with his wife who was waiting at the edge of the mine breach. Despite the danger, Mrs. Tosheky, with the assistance of several miners descended to the bottom of the mine and listened to the voice of her husband for the first time in nearly a week.

"How are the children, especially the baby?" was the first question Tosheky asked. He told his wife not to worry, that the mine officials had assured him it would not be a great while until he could be with her again.

Superintendent Heffner and other officials expressed doubt tonight as to the entombed man could be reached before Friday.

HENNING IS CAUGHT YEAR AFTER CHARGE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 1.—John C. Henning of Chicago was arrested here today and is held as a fugitive from justice. Henning sued Clarence S. Funk, then general manager of the International Harvesting Company, for $50,000 damages, for alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Henning. A jury in Chicago found for Funk, June 20, 1912, and he swore out a warrant charging Henning with perjury. Today's information of Henning's whereabouts was the first since then.

Meanwhile Henning's attorney, Daniel Donahoe, and two of his witnesses were indicted in Chicago on charges of conspiracy to defame Funk's character.

It is claimed by Funk that Henning's suit was inspired in revenge for the former's testimony adverse to Senator Lorimer before the Senate investigation committee.

MISS BIXBY DECLINES TO RUN FOR MAYOR

LONG BEACH, Oct. 1. — Miss Pamela Bixby, sister to George H. Bixby, the millionaire who was acquitted Monday night by a jury at Los Angeles, of a charge of having contributed to the delinquency of a young girl, declined today to accept the Socialist nomination for mayor of Long Beach.

Miss Bixby was nominated at a Socialist convention last night and the nomination was formally tendered her today. Her reason for declining, she said, was that she expected to be away from Long Beach for several months during the coming year.

SENATOR LODGE IS OUT OF DANGER

NAHANT, Mass., Oct. 1.—Danger of serious effects from the operation to which United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge submitted last Friday for the removal of a gastric ulcer, has passed, Dr. Francis B. Harrington announced tonight. The time within which complications were feared expired today, Dr. Harrington said, and the senator is now able to sit up in bed. The doctor approved a statement given out tonight by Mrs. Lodge, which said:

"Senator Lodge's condition continues good. His pulse and temperature are normal. The patient was able to take a little more nourishment today, which he seemed to relish."

REDUCED SPECULATION ON STOCK EXCHANGE

More Actual Business Done Probably Than Last Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Business on the stock exchange for the nine months of the calendar year, ending yesterday, showed a marked falling off in comparison with the corresponding period of 1912, despite the greater activity and general price advances of the last few weeks.

At the close of yesterday's session a total of approximately 65,000,000 shares of stock was recorded for the first three quarters of the year, while the corresponding period of 1912, the bond sales aggregated about $26,000,000. These totals represent a decrease of about 31,000,000 shares and $185,000,000, compared with the same period last year.

To an extent, however, these figures are considered misleading for the reason that under the policy of reform inaugurated by the exchange early in the year, the daily operations of the last few months are believed to represent more actual business than was transacted in former years when manipulation often was of a flagrant character.

View the outlook as more hopeful than some months ago. This is indicated in the partial recovery of the price of stock exchange seats from their low price of the mid-year.

HUNDRED-MEN FIGHT OVER RIGHT OF WAY

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 1.—Two forces, aggregating 100 men, fought a bloodless battle at Havenscourt, on a Southern Pacific right of way, this morning. Employees of a local real estate firm, in an effort to prevent the operation of a new electric line extension, piled the tracks high with rocks and debris. The Southern Pacific men, stormed the barricade with a mogul engine and an electric car. The trip over the obstruction had to be made three times to carry out terms of a franchise and this was done. According to the realty people, the company has failed to keep its promise as to the rate and the statement has been made that the road will not be allowed to operate through the property.

JUDGE RICHARDS SUCCEEDS HALL

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1. — The vacancy in the First Appellate Court caused by the death of Judge Samuel P. Hall was filled today by the appointment by Governor Johnson of Judge John E. Richards of the Superior Court of Santa Clara county.

The vacancy in the Santa Clara court caused by the resignation of Richards will be filled by the appointment of W. A. Beasley, an attorney of San Jose, to the place.

NO ASSISTANCE FOR SCHOONERS IN ICE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The United States revenue cutter service is powerless to render assistance to six schooners imprisoned in Arctic ice off Point Barrow, Alaska because of the season. The Navy's Chamber of Commerce, which appealed for assistance for the imprisoned schooners, will be so informed today by the commandant of the revenue cutter service.

Officers here express the belief that the crews of the schooners are safe and can get plenty of provisions. In any event they can reach shore over the ice and make the trip southward on reindeer or dog sledges.

SAY SOUTHERN PACIFIC NOT KEEPING AGREEMENT

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 1.—Four union railway associations in Louisiana and Texas have formed an association under a co-operative movement to fight for a strict compliance with their working schedule with the Southern Pacific lines from New Orleans to El Paso—it was announced here today.

The strikers in the agreement "the firemen and engineers, locomotive engineers, railway trainmen and conductors."

The men claim the mediation agreement reached with the company under negotiations conducted by Federal Mediator Neill are not being observed. The company denies this.

FOUR STOWAWAYS ESCAPE; MAY HAVE DROWNED

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. — Four stowaways who were to have been deported on the steamer France, obtained liberty or death today by leaping forty-five feet from an upper deck to the Hudson as the vessel lay at her pier. All trace of the men was lost. The finding of two life belts in the river, however, led to the belief that they had perished.

FEDERAL NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — The President sent to the Senate today the following nominations: Chief of engineers with rank of brigadier general, Colonel Dan C. Kingman, corps of engineers.

Chief inspectors of locomotive boilers, Interstate Commerce Commission, Frank McManamy of Oregon.

EXPERIMENTING WITH PARCEL POST MATTERS

Instructions Given Postmasters How to Have Packages Wrapped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Standardization of methods of handling parcel post matter is being worked out by Postmaster General Hurdson. To this end three postoffices have been selected at which general instructions will be given from time to time to the employees by the experts of the department in the approved methods of handling parcel post mail. The offices selected are at Baltimore, Boston and Richmond, Va. Once a standard is attained in these, every postmaster in the country will be made familiar with the various methods adopted, so that when the holiday season is reached the enormous amount of parcel post matter may be handled scientifically and expeditiously. Hurdson has determined that safety to the merchandise transported shall be the principal feature of the parcel post.

First Assistant Postmaster General Roper sent letters to all postmasters today urging concerted efforts to receive the mails of improperly wrapped and packed parcels. Postmasters are particularly reminded that umbrellas, canes, golf clubs and similar articles must not be accepted for mailing unless they are strapped securely to strips of wood of the same length and are wrapped securely so as to withstand the impact from heavier packages.

FLAG AS SYMBOL OF PEACE DEDICATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—President Wilson today dedicated as an insignia of peace an American flag which has been carried from battlefield to battlefield throughout the South by Major Alfred F. Judson, an ex-Confederate soldier of Los Angeles, during a recent tour in the interest of peace.

Major Judson, who has conducted patriotic exercises while the peace flag waved over Missionary Ridge, Chickamauga, Appomattox, Gettysburg and other battle grounds of the Civil War, planted the flag over Washington's tomb a few days ago.

As the flag was unfurled in the executive office by Major Judson and Lieutenant General Young, representing Grand Army of the Republic, the President joined the donors in expressing hope for domestic and international peace.

WATER IS ADMITTED INTO CULEBRA CUT

PANAMA, Oct. 1.—Water was let into the Culebra cut from Gatun lake through four 24-inch pipes under the Gamboa dike at 9 o'clock this morning. At the present rate of flow the cut between the Cucaracha slide and the Gamboa dike, a distance of about fifteen miles, will be filled to a depth of five feet by October 10, the date set for the destruction of the Gamboa dike.

Since the suspension of steam shovel operations, the Cucaracha slide has extended "completely" across the cut to the 73-foot level so that when the water is admitted to the probable lake level of 68 feet on October 10, it cannot pass this barrier. It is now proposed to ditch through the slide and the resulting rush of water is expected to carry away a large portion of the obstacle.

ISLAND APPOINTMENTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Secretary of War Garrison conferred with the President today on the forthcoming appointments of governor of Porto Rico and Philippine commissioner. The secretary said no conclusion had been reached. Candidates for governor of Porto Rico include Arthur Yager of Georgetown, Ky., former president of the college there, who was a classmate of President Wilson at Princeton. Senator James is strongly urging the appointment. Other candidates are Congressman Foster of Illinois and Frank A. Day of Minnesota.

Most people find it hard to keep it in the face. It sure goes fast.

Guy Borden Meets First Defeat of 1913 Season

SENSATIONAL RACING GIVES DICK W. VICTORY IN PACING

Borden Noses Bay Gelding Out In Final Heat of 2:20 Event, After Losing First Two By Few Inches; Cornell Horse Again Places In Running

For the first time this season, Guy Borden, the black stallion owned by W. G. Durfee and driven by Durfee met defeat yesterday in the second day's racing of the Fresno district fair when Dick W., a bay gelding owned by B. F. Stone and driven by Sky Walton of Fresno took the first two heats of the 2:20 race.

Never in the history of the Fresno race-course has such a contest with harness thoroughbreds been staged. All three heats were struggles the entire distance with never more than one-half a length to spare.

J. C. Simpson, a bay gelding owned and driven by C. L. De Ryder, went to victory in the first two heats of the 2:15 trot, the first event of the afternoon. True Kinney, a bay stallion owned by J. W. Conslidine and driven by Daniels, won the final heat of this event by a neck over J. C. Simpson.

DICK W. THE VICTOR
With the exception of McCola, the pack of five entries got away to a good start in the first heat of the 2:20 race. Dick W. immediately flashed to the lead and held it until the quarter had been completed. After the half had been passed, Loch Lomond began to draw to the lead before the three-quarters. Up to this time Guy Borden did not look like a contender, but as the pack flashed into the stretch the big black stallion challenged Dick W. for the victory. In the tight which ensued, Guy Borden ran to the flank of the leader, but was unable to gain another inch before the wire was reached.

Dick W. displayed a wonderful burst of speed in the second heat. After four attempts the five horses got away together. Dick W. went into the nit at the first turn, breaking the lead. When the quarter post had been gained Dick W. was fully six lengths behind and no one would have given a cent for his chances to win.

Driver Walton brought the pacer back to his gait with startling results. The next quarter of a mile saw the bay gelding gain four lengths on the pack and pass McCola.

Long before the three-quarters post had been reached, Dick W. overhauled Hamburg Belle and took third place. A final sprint at the three-quarters put the gelding at Loch Lomond's flank, who was trailing the leader, Guy Borden, by half a length.

In this position the three leading horses hit the stretch. Before half the distance was covered Hamburg Belle was forced into third place, Dick W. becoming the contender for the second heat.

Five thousand racing fans in the grandstand rose to their feet and cheered with one accord for the racer. Trainers and owners in the paddock begged their favorites to come to the front.

Inch by inch Dick W. crawled along the black stallion's flank until the two horses raced nose and nose. Ten feet from the wire the bay gelding thrust himself to the front by a fraction, winning by a nose. It was a great battle with two thoroughbreds fighting to the finish.

GUY BORDEN WINS IN THIRD
Guy Borden made his only win of the day in the last heat, when he came under the finish wire a half length to the good.

The black horse took the lead at the first turn and maintained it until after the quarter had been passed. Loch Lomond and Dick W. came up from behind and the three raced neck and neck for the next quarter of a mile.

Loch Lomond dropped behind shortly after the three-quarters had been completed and the fight for the honors of the day settled down between Guy Borden and Dick W. The two came to the wire with Borden a nose to the good.

RAIN CUTS DOWN RACING PROGRAM

Bismya Wins 2:20 Trot On Columbus Grand Circuit Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 1.—Drenched by rain Tuesday night, the Columbus Grand Circuit track was not made safe for racing this afternoon until 3 o'clock when an abbreviated program was taken up. The Buckeye $5000 stake for trotters was postponed until tomorrow. Only one of the three races started was finished, Bismya winning the 2:20 trot after the first heat had been won by George Rex of the Murphy stable.

Fay Richmond, after getting two heats of the 2:13 pace, was nose out of the third by Princess Margaret, the favorite. This race, like the 2:10 pace, in which different horses won each of the three heats decided, will be completed tomorrow. Don Patch, favorite for the 2:10 pace, was upset in the first heat and Driver Johnston was unseated. The horse was placed last, the mishap being declared unavoidable. He was a contender in the next two heats.

In scoring for the first heat of the 2:13 pace, Christabel W. swerved into Kinney's Sham and Driver Ben Walker was thrown against the inside fence. Kinney's Sham ran around the track before being caught. Walker resumed his seat and reced three heats.

HOME FANS GIVE ODDS ON SERIES

Even Money On Giants and Athletics Will Probably Stand

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Betting on the outcome of the world's series baseball games, which opened in New York, October 1, started at 10 to 6. It wavered not that the odds were placed on Philadelphia or New York, 10 to 6, were the figures. That is, if the better happened to be in Philadelphia when the National Commission announced the date of the opening game, there was the money to place on the Athletics at 10 to 6, and in New York the odds were 10 to 6 that the Giants would win.

Hence the unusual situation prevailed that the bettors in both cities were willing to give odds on their home teams. These odds obtained for several days until Larry Doyle, captain of the Giants, was hurt in an automobile accident and with Snodgrass had sprung a Charley Horse. Reports that Doyle and Snodgrass might be unable to play in the series were instantly reflected, and bettors in New York were unwilling to risk more than even money on their teams in the face of such reports.

By far the greatest amount of money placed in the first few days after the opening date was announced was wagered in so-called freak bets. There was no end of these. Reports from Chicago were that a bet could be had on any point pertaining to the games, and the following were quoted as some of the odds given bets made there:

Even money on Giants and Athletics.
Two to one that Bender does not win one game.
Four to one that Bender does not win two games.

Seven to one that Mathewson does not win one game.
Three to one that Mathewson does not win two games.
Twenty-five to one that the series goes over four games.

Two to one that the series does not go seven games.

One hundred to one that the Giants do not win four straight.

One hundred to one that the Athletics do not win four straight.

In New York one bet was recorded at odds of 4 to 5 that Mathewson would pitch the first game. Another bet was reported at even money that Demaree would win his first game.

A third bet was that the series would go six games. This bet was also at even money. One Giant enthusiast offered 1 to 4 that the Giants would win the first three games, but found no takers.

Infinite were the variations on which the early bettors laid their money. One man bet even money that Athletics would make more runs during the total games than the Giants.

Another offered even money that the Athletics would lead in hitting.

Both in New York and Philadelphia the usual plaint was heard that money was being offered on the home team without takers.

FAHEY WILL QUIT PACIFIC COAST

Fresno Man Will Play Baseball With Eastern Teams Next Year

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Howard Fahey, hope of the Angels at short last spring, is to quit the Coast in a baseball way.

Fahey has "confided in friends that he means to play in the East wherein he has his home, and this being the case, Henry Berry will endeavor to swap him.

Berry says that he has received no intimation personally that Fahey wants to play elsewhere, but admits that it is possible he may trade that player while in the East. It is regarded as significant that Fahey is to accompany Berry when he leaves here for New York tomorrow.

Berry has a number of deals pending which will strengthen the Angels for next year, and Fahey may figure in one of these.

Fahey came to Los Angeles last spring in the "three-for-one" deal by which Philadelphia secured Pete Daley in exchange for Maggert, Crabb and Fahey. This was the grandest swap ever made from a Los Angeles standpoint. Maggert not only comfortably filled Daley's shoes in center field, but he probably is the peer of all Coast League players, regardless of position.

Crabb has pitched some high class ball for the Angels, and gives promise of developing into one of the mainstays of the club.

Fahey's youth and experienced militated against him, and he was sent to the Fresno club. It is only a question of time until he will develop into the Class AA article. But there is little or no chance for him to beat Johnson out at short next season, and the idea of crossing the continent to play class D ball does not appeal to him. He will winter in the East, and hopes to get on with some club nearer home.

"I would prefer to keep Fahey, for he looks the part of a corner, but if it will inconvenience him to play on the Coast next season, I will endeavor to place him with some team in the East," said Berry, who is a reasonable man.

MARSHALL WINS AGAIN AT CHESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The second game of the series of five between Frank J. Marshall, United States chess champion, and the Bohemian champion, Oldrich Duras, was finished at the Manhattan Chess Club early today.

After fifty-four moves Duras, who had opened the game with a queen's gambit, declined, resigned. This gave Marshall two points to Duras' none.

Fahey's youth and experienced militated against him, and he was sent to the Fresno club. It is only a question of time until he will develop into the Class AA article. But there is little or no chance for him to beat Johnson out at short next season, and the idea of crossing the continent to play class D ball does not appeal to him. GENERAL CONDITIONS. The barometer fell steadily over the entire Pacific coast during Wednesday morning, the fall being accompanied by diminishing the intensity of the high pressure over the northwest. It is warmer and fair over all portions of the Pacific slope except southern California, a light shower having fallen at Los Angeles and threatening weather being reported from San Diego. Wednesday was warm in northern and central portions of the state, especially in the middle coast sections where, afternoon maxima of 80 degrees and 82 degrees were reached at San Francisco and San Luis Obispo, respectively. There was rain on the Gulf coast, over the middle Atlantic and New England states, Minnesota and Colorado. The predominating feature of weather conditions over the country was the excessive fall of 4.56 inches of rain at New York city Wednesday afternoon. A change to unsettled weather is slowing by falling place and some cloudiness on Thursday may be expected, probably, followed by threatening weather Thursday night or Friday. Winds will be light southerly.

sure by speculators who were taking advantage of the situation. Cuts were mainly governed by other grain, though having special cause for weakness, namely: rival shipments from Canada to Buffalo, Boston and New York.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Under lead of the copper which made the best showing of any group in the market, stocks were generally higher. Pacific, Reading and Canadian Pacific rose a point each, but the advance in general was small, and its chief significance lay in the fact that the decline of the previous two days was effectually checked. The market opened with a general advance largely in response to the rise of American stocks in London. Bear traders renewed their attack again centering their efforts on steel which was depressed under yesterday's low price. The other active stocks also were hampered but the resultant decline failed to bring out stocks. Instead a better demand appeared at the lower levels. The market moved irregularly for a time, but gradually developed strength.

The undertone was strong during the remainder of the day.

The exceptional rise in copper was associated with the advance of the metal in London and the strong showing made in the European fortnightly report of copper stocks.

The position of London in this market was an important factor. A better feeling abroad was reported and stocks were bought on a liberal scale for foreign accounts.

Unfavorable August returns for a number of the large eastern lines failed to depress the railroad stocks. New York Central and Pennsylvania both reported large shrinkages in net and Erie on the poorest showing of recent months.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,125,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

4TH OF JULY EDDYTORIUL
Well, here we be once more standing right on the brink, as you might say, of the Glorious 4th of July, 1913.
It don't seem no time scarcely since the last 4th of July, which occurred a yr. ago, was in our midst. By goodness, how time flies! But do not let us repine about that—let us not brood in sorrow because the mill will not grind with the water that is past—let us not cast our eyes behind us in the dim and misty past which is dead and gone, but let us look forward to the 4th of July which is almost upon us being as this auspicious occasion occurs this year next Friday.
The 4th this yr., as usual, will begin at midnight on the end of the 3d and will continue uninterrupted until midnight of the 4th.
We again call the attention of the residents of Bingville and vicinity to the purpose and intent of what the 4th of July means, being as probably no more than one person here and there outen a great many knows what the 4th is for.
The 4th of July is set apart to celebrate the birthday of American independence—it is the day on which the American flag is unfurled to the breeze and flaps its tail in the gentle zephyrs, as we might say. It is the day when the American eagle stands up to his full height on his perch, flogs his wings a few times, and screeches as loud as he can screech the battle cry of freedom.
The 4th of July is the day when every citizen of the United States who has the welfare of his country at heart is willing to yell and holler from sunrise to sunset until he can't scarcely speak above a whisper in order to show how patriotic he is. The American citizen who don't do this ain't got a spark of patriotism in his bosom and ort to be ashamed of himself.
Bingville will celebrate the 4th of July this year as usual, full acct. of which will be found in another column.
Read this acct. and govern yourself accordingly.
LET EVERYBODY IN BINGVILLE DO THEIR LOUDEST TO HELP CELEBRATE THE 4TH OF JULY IN OUR MIDST!

Personal Mention
Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, has just received a box of choice herrings which he offers for sale to them as desires herrings. What makes a more appetizing lunch than a few herrings and crackers? These herrings are 5 cts. each. DRINKING WATER WITH THE HERRINGS FREE! (Advertisement).
Hank Dewberry, our respected but lazy townsman, aint done a lick of work since May first. Hank says the trouble he finds is that in winter it's too cold to work and in summer it's too hot—Hank only works springs and falls.
Seth Dewberry, our lion-hearted town constable, indulged in a little target practice with his revolver back of his house to-day. Seth set up a tin can for a mark 50 ft. away. Then Seth shot the gun, but missed the can and hit Widow Skinner's tomato over in the west yard, killing same instantly. The bereaved widow talks about bringing suit for damages agin Seth.
Jim Hendricks went fishing last Sunday over to Goorthic Pond. All Jim needed was a fish hook in his thumb, clean over the nail. Jim went to yank out a big pickerel but the hook jerked outen the fish's mouth into Jim's thumb as per above, whereupon Jim returned home in deep disgust.
Miss Emily Dewberry is suffering from rheumatism in her left knee. Not long ago it was in Emily's right knee. Curious how rheumatism will jump round from one place to tother. Emily says she wishes to goodness it would take a notion to jump into somebody else.

Harve Miller of Millersville was to Bingville and sold Hen Weathersby, our enterprising storekeeper, 2 doz. of eggs recently, which eggs Hen found to be old. The way Hen found the eggs was old was that he let one of them by accident fall on the floor of the store. As soon as it broke, then as was present left the store and went home holding his nose, and said that if that was the kind of eggs Hen Weathersby had for sale they calculated they'd trade somewhere else.

Country Correspondence
SLAB CITY
Mrs. Sam Hankins lost three hens by cholery last week. Mrs. Sam says unless she can cure her hens of the cholery, the ones which have died will eat up all the profits she made on eggs during the winter.
Jasper Tarbell nearly stepped on a big black snake while strolling through his orchard one day recently. Jasp got a fence stake and struck at the snake, but the stake glanced off the limb of a apple tree and hit him on the head, nearly rendering him unconscious. When Jasp came outen his daze the snake was gone.
Archie Perkins has a pig for sale. The pig aint been very well lately, and Archie desires to dispose of it. Here's a chance to buy a pig cheap.
Widow Jones is on the sick list. She tuk dinner last Sunday with her neighbor, Mrs. Wm. Woods and over et.
Jabe Homans, our oldest inhabitant, will celebrate his 89th birthday next Tuesday. Jabe says he ain't quite so spry as he used to be, but he can still do a good day's work.
Jake Haines had a calf to fall into the stone quarry to-day, and kill itself. Jake then dressed off the calf and sold it for veal. Folks round here are great hands for fresh killed veal.
Susan Beebe made a trip to the Co. seat last Tuesday with butter and eggs and returned with coffee and sugar.
It is right down warm weather in our midst for this time of year. Not only that, but we need rain.

The Glorious Fourth!
It Will Be Celebrated in Bingville With Great Eclaw!—A Effort Will Be Made to Carry Out the Following Program Without a Hitch!—Patriotick Citizens Is Called on to Take Active Part! Full Particulars as Per Below!

Bingville, with her usual push and energy, will celebrate the 4th of July in our midst next Friday in a manner befitting the occasion, and if the programme which has been planned by our leading citizens is carried out, there will be great doins in this town on that day.
Wen Woodruff, our expert hunter and trapper, has appointed himself as the official urshurer in the 4th of July. Wes has a old muzzle-loading shot gun which has had a load in it for seven yrs. and which Wes haint never shot off, being as he didn't want to waste the load. On the 4th of July, however, being as Wes wants to get this shot outen the shotgun, he considers it won't be lost if he fires it off to ursher in the day.
Ves has stated officially that at daylight on the morning of the 4th of July he will stand on the public sq. and fire off the shotgun. After that other citizens may fire off shotguns or fire-crackers or holler and yell and make all the noise by any fair means which they like, but Wes will be pumy mad if anybody makes any 4th of July noise before he urshurs in the day officially with his shotgun.
From about 3:30 a. m. (which is daylight) until 6 o'clock pandemonium in Bingville will rain supreme. Then Bingville will set down to breakfast, and for a hr. there will be a lull in the proceedings.
At 10 o'clock there will be a grand 4th of July parade, down the Main st. of Bingville and back agin. This parade will consist last of the Bingville Fire Dept. in their uniforms (those that have any) carrying ladders and fire pails. The 2d part of the parade will consist of the leading citizens of Bingville marching 2 by 2. The 3d part of the parade will consist of the Bingville Horn Band, and the 4th and last part will consist of all the men, wimmen, children and dogs who desire to take part in the parade. This will be a very imposing spectacle. Don't miss it!
After dinner everybody will assemble in the Town Hall, and after a select show by the Bingville Horn Band, which will be present, Jed Peters, our intelligent school teacher, will take his place on the platform and deliver a eloquent address on the 4th of July. Jed has went to a good cal of trouble to write down his speech and commit it to memory. We hope that Jed has went to more trouble to do this than he did on the 4th of July a yr. ago, when he got up before the whole Town Hall full and forgot his speech before he had talked 2 minutes, and when he clapped on his hat and went home in deep disgust, leaving the audience there in worse disgust.
After the speech is over everybody will alurn to the lawn under the shade trees back of the Town Hall, where there will be tables groaning under the weight of good things to eat provided by the Ladies Aid of the Bingville church.
There will be a nominal fee of 25 cts. charged for a full meal, the proceeds to be devoted to paying off the balance of Rev. Moore's, our beloved pastor's back salary for the yr. 1889, which is long overdue.

After everybody has et fit to bust, they will disperse to their various homes conscious of a day well spent and of having done their duty in celebrating the glorious 4th.

Lokal Items
Alonzo Skillings of Calamity Corners passed through Bingville to-day, but we noticed that Alonzo didn't stop at the Bugle office and make a call. The reason for this probably is that Alonzo owes us 9 yrs. back subscription.
Miss Sally Hoskins, our poetry writer, says she would write a poem on "Summer" for the Bugle if it wasn't so terrible hot and she didn't have the hives. We hope Sally will soon get shet of the hives so she can write the poem, which we know would be read with great cheer by our army of subscribers.
Miss Phronicia Watkins purchased a pair of high heeled shoes at the Co. seat last week and wore em to church for the first time last Sunday. Just as Phronicia was about to enter the church she sprained her ankle. It don't always pay to try to be in the latest style.
Ransom Smiley had a terrible toothache on him tother night and got so despit with the pain that he let up a flail on the stove and held it to his face to drive away the ache. It drive away the ache but blistered Ransom's right cheek from his eye to the point of his chin, but Ransie says he would a blamed sight rather have a blister than a toothache.
Miss Amelia Tucker, our raining society queen, poured tea at a party last Saturday by Miss Milly Underwood. Miss Amelia would have done very well pouring the tea if she hadn't poured some of it by accident on Miss Isabel Miller's dress. Isabel ain't spoke to Amelia since.

Gabe Hooper, while in his hay mow tother day pitching down some hay for the horses, fell through the mow floor on the back of his old gray mare, surprising all concerned. The gray mare was so surprised that she kicked up, throwing Gabe up agin the mow floor agin. When Gabe lit the 2d time he run outen the stable and struck for the house considerable skeered.

Same Old Story
Bill Hepburn, our artstlick blacksmith, made a trip to the Co. seat last Saturday as usual, but before going Bill promised his wife that he wouldn't tech a drop of licker.
Like the foolish woman she is, Mrs. Hepburn believed what Bill said until he approached Bingville Saturday evng. about dusk. Bill could be heard approaching long before he reached the town—he was singing coarse songs in a loud and vulgar voice, and every little while he would stop singing and yell and holler as if he was experiencing great joy.
As Bill passed Hen Weathersby's store Sim Wilkins says to him, "Hello, Bill." Bill looked round suddint to see who was speaking to him, lost his balance and fell outen the buggy seat into the road while the horse walked on with the buggy and stopped before Bill's barn door.
As soon as Bill got on his feet he desired to know who pulled him outen the buggy. Nobody answered. Then Bill started for the crowd on the piazza in front of Hen's store, consisting of several of our most respected citizens, and they run in and Hen locked the door on Bill, who went home.
When Bill's wife, Sarah, seen the pitiful condition Bill was in she completely lost her temper. Snatching up a new broom which she had bought only that day, she give Bill what was probably one of the most terrible maulings he ever got from human hands. Sarah didn't let up until she had broke the broom on Bill and he was laying in the front yard hollerin for mercy. Then Sarah made Bill go out to the barn and sleep off his debauch there.

The better element of Bingville is in sympathy with Mrs. Hepburn and highly commends her action in this matter.

Society News
There are not a great many society news to write about in Bingville this week, being as on account of the warm weather there seems to be a lull in the Bingville social whirl, as we might say.
Hen Weathersby, our enterprising storekeeper, give a smoker to a few of the boys who happened to be in the store tother evng. Hen had on hand some old seegars which has been on hand for about 12 yrs., he says, which moths or something had got into. Hen passed around the cigars and the boys thanked him very profuse for his liberality until they lit the cigars, when they all begin to sneeze and choke and sputter.
Lem Brown and Shorty Long, who was two of them as tried to smoke the cigars, both got sick as death and had to go outside to get some fresh air. The others, after a few whiffs, throwed away the cigars and one by one went home, until the store was deserted by everybody except Hen.
Them to who Hen give these cigars say they will buy their smoking material elsewhere hereafter.

Celebrate the 4th!
If you are a first-class citizen of these United States you will not forget to celebrate the glorious 4th which occurs in our midst next Friday! He who has no patriotism in his soul is fit for treason's stratagems and spoils. Let every man and boy in Bingville do all he can to make next Friday a joyous occasion. The best way to celebrate the 4th of July is to make as much noise as possible. Well, I have the things to make noise with! I have laid in a supply of cannon crackers, fire crackers, sky rockets, whizz wheels, Roman candles, gun powder and other explosives too numerous to mention. Come in and buy some of these explosives to set off the 4th of July, or if you are afraid to set them off, let somebody else set them off—there is no need of you taking the risk if you are afraid to take it—let the other fool take it. Buy these goods while the stock is full before they have been all pawed over. First come, first served. Don't wait until after the 4th of July, because then it will be too late. Now is the accepted time. Buy your fireworks offen me. Yours for a big noise,

DOROTHY INSISTS

LD SIMMONS, of Simmons & Taer, rushed, frantically out of his private office.

"Frons!" he bawled. "Frons!
Frons!"

Startled bookkeepers bent busily over ledgers. Office boys rushed hither and yon on purely imaginative errands. The ghost of a smile on the lips of a pretty stenographer was frozen to a taut line as the heavyweight senior of the firm bore down upon her.

"Where's Frons?" screamed the boss.

"I—I don't know," gasped the girl, her ears ringing. "He hasn't arrived yet."

"Hasn't, eh?" roared Simmons.
"Hasn't!" He scowled. "Well, when he comes send him in, d'ye hear?
Send him in!" With an elephantine shuffle he vanished off toward.

A startled quiet followed. Somewhere, in a remote corner, a pin fell from a clerk's lapel. A boy giggled hysterically. The door opened and Frons breezily made his appearance.

"You—you're wanted in the office, sir," the intimidated stenographer ventured.

Fred Frons was good to look at.
His clothes fitted his lithe form well, and he had a self-assured way with him that made him the best road salesman of the great firm of Simmons & Taer.

"Sit down," growled Simmons, and resumed writing. It was possibly two minutes before he glanced up. The senior of Simmons & Taer had a knack of jumping into the heart of things when he liked, and he began at once, his heady little pig eyes twinkling eloquently behind rolls of fat.

"I have a letter here from the Square Deal Store at Duffburg," bogan Simmons. "You have been there recently?" This last seemed to be in the form of a question. Frons answered.

"Last week," he elucidated. "The store is on my route, but they have only recently added a china department. I didn't land their order, however."

"Maybe you didn't, young man," growled Simmons, enigmatically.
"That remains to be seen. The Square Deal is a pretty big store, isn't it?"

"Largest in their section," responded the traveling man. "And worth more to us than any three in my district, if we can live them up."

"Here," monosyllabically the boss threw an open letter toward Frons, who dutifully caught it. It read:
"Messrs. Simmons & Taer,
"New York City."
"Gentlemen—Your Mr. Frons called upon us last week with samples and prices. We also received a visit from Mr. Dobson, of Meek & Metz, who, as you know, are in the same line as yourselves.

"The time when either of these gentlemen called was inauspicious for buying. We are now in the market, however, but confess ourselves unable to choose between the two houses—all things, in our estimation, being equal. (Here let us say that the Square Deal, following its custom in other departments, will buy from only one china house.)

"A letter similar to this is sent by same mail to Meek & Metz. The first to reach us with a salesman will receive a substantial order and all future business—providing, of course, responsible competitor's prices are met.

"Very truly,
"The Square Deal Store."

Without a word, Frons handed the letter back. He looked at his watch.
"I have 15 minutes in which to make the first train-out," answered
Frons.

Simmons prized brevity. His fat face glowed. His thick lips wreathed to something akin to a smile.

"Good," he rumbled, beating a great fist on the flat desk before him.
"I'm glad that there's one man in my employ who is willing to postpone his outing for the sake of business. We haven't a man in on the road except you—but I knew you could be dependent upon." Frons's vacation was to have begun the next day and he had planned to go on a fishing trip with a number of friends, none of whom he would ask to sacrifice one golden moment in waiting for his return.

Frons wasted no time in dialogue.
The time was too limited. Again, he knew that in the offices of Meek & Metz a similar conflict was taking place between the team, Josephine Metz and the cunning Dobson, accruing for the grocery trade of Frons's special district.

It took the young commercial man but an instant to annex his traveling

AND SO YOU ALLOWED DOBSON TO REACH US FIRST book to the occupant of the chair beside him.

One look into great, blue eyes, and the owner of them relished their im-pudic depths with long lashes lightly brush-ing flushed cheeks. Frons justifica-tively knew that his gaze had been too arresting.

Cautiously, he looked again. His vis-a-vis was a daintily gowned, slender girl with the face and form of a wood fairy. Frons, generally in-superior to feminine charms, fell thrill to her witchery. Frons felt that his model woman was before him. And still! How was he to become acquainted with her? If she responded to a flirtation she fell behind his ideal—and there was no other way.

The traveling man thumbed his magazine absently. As he did so his eyes came in contact with those of his forbidden rival. There was a complacent leer on the face of Dobson that brought an answering flush to his own. The Meek-Metz bagman's glance into the deep pools of her eyes told him that the thought was unworthy. Across the aisle Dobson stared at them, his own eyes cunning.

Frons, in the interested moments which followed, forgot him.

The good-looking salesman for Simmons & Taer was delighted to find that the maid was for the same destination as himself. She was bright and entertaining. They seemed to be mutually pleased with each other.

"I wanted to know you the moment
I saw you," confessed Frons frankly.
"—I thought you did," shyly answered the girl, "and that reminds me that we do not know each other's names. As Frons started to speak she interrupted. "Don't spoil it all," she protested, petulantly. "Let's just go on as we are. We will never meet again, anyway," she finished cheerfully.

"Of course, if you don't want to know my name," reproved Frons.
"I don't," frankly acknowledged the girl; then, to relieve the sting,

"Names are an impediment to romance. Of course, if, afterward, we shall meet formally—"

"If—?" came dismally from the traveling man.

"Stranger things have happened," said the girl hopefully. From across the aisle Dobson smiled knowingly into the face of Frons as he turned morosely away.

The hours passed delightfully. The girl lunched with her train companion, and even the dull waiter seemed to appreciate the beauty and dainty vivaciousness of her. The man at the next table scanned his card amused. It was Dobson.

In the late afternoon the train creaked wearily into the dingy station at Williamsburg. Frons regretted the arrival. To him it meant the end of how he could run errands and beat his rival. He was surprised that the girl should ask this favor of him, he had told her of his race and she knew what the delay meant.

Leaving the girl at the corner of the station and in charge of his baggage, he rushed hastily toward the telegraph office. "Is there a telegram here for—?" he gasped, and then—"Well, I'll be blessed if I haven't forgotten to ask her name."

With a curious mingling of emotions—regret at the further delay, and joy in the knowledge that he would shortly know who she was, he returned to the corner. There sat his grip—alone! She was gone!

A carriage was just drawing away from the spot. The window was thrown quickly open. "Goodbye—my friend," she called mockingly back to him. A fluffy blonde head was drawn hurriedly in—but not before it was recognized by the betrayed traveler.

"Gad," he murmured disgustedly.
"Talk about Mr. Easy Mark. Suddenly, and with blighting effect, the whole scheme lay bare before him.
She was the representative of Meek & Metz, who would land the order and all future business of the Square Deal Store for her house. Dobson had only been a pawn in the game, and Frons's eyes had concentrated on him instead of the queen of the chess."

"I'm not done yet," he growled, as a passing cab drew to the curb in response to his raised hand. "The Square Deal Store," he said, "and $5 above fare if there's froth on your hours' lips when we arrive." A careless toss of the cases and they were off.

As Frons breathlessly advanced toward the private office of old Col.
Dane, the owner and buyer of the Square Deal store, Dobson was making a leisurely exit. "A little late, aren't you?" he mused as the hurrying man passed him. Frons ignored him.

"Col. Dane is busy," explained the office boy, and seated the objecting drummer in the anteroom.

"But I must see him at once—I have an engagement," protested Frons.

The youth eyed him with small favor. "Well, yer don't see him at once," he reiterated. "Der's a lady before yer. See? An' she makes more of a bit wid de boss dan yose ever will." He seated himself grumpily in a chair and produced a captivating romance bound in lurid covers.

Frons growled. Nothing but the natural instinct of the fighting roadster had kept him in the race after it had been brought to him that his defeat was a forgone conclusion, and now that he had leisure to think it over, it occurred to him that an inconspicuous retreat was in order.

He arose, just as the door of the inner office opened and the fair one of the train made her appearance. She beamed at Frons with a touch of mischief in her eyes, nodded slightly, and was gone. Frons sighed.

"Ghame yer card," growled the waiting boy, and, plodded into the august presence. He returned with a semit phrase to the effect that Frons could enter, and sunk again into the absorbing novel.

"Take a chair," greeted Col. Dane.
He was an impressive figure, with a gray imperia dotting a strong chin, and a wealth of long white hair sweeping broad shoulders. He was originally of the West—of an old school.

"Keen eyes surveyed Frons. "You are aware, of course," began the merchant, "that the order for which you have come was to have been given to the first man who reached me, either from your firm, or the house of Meek & Metz."

"Yes, sir," stammered Frons, his arguments falling before the strong personality of the man. From beneath bushy brows the old colonel surveyed him.

"Well," came crisply, "do you know that the Meek-Metz man has been here?"

"I thought—" began Frons.

"You thought—" interrupted Dane,
"that polite attentions to strange women would land our trade, I presume."

"I—I—"

"And so you allowed Dobson to reach us first?"

"Dobson?" interrogated Frons, his thoughts on the girl.

"Yes," Dobson growled the merchant. "If the woman in the case wasn't my daughter, and if she hadn't interceded with an indignant old father who denies her nothing—even business secrets—your cake would be dough, young man. As it is, I want you to understand that I don't approve of your actions at all. By rights you should have forfeited our business." There was a belying twinkle in the old man's eyes. "However," he continued, "I can't stop to talk crockery now, too busy!" He snapped open his watch. "Be here at 8." He growled, settling back to his papers.
"You dine with us, you know. Upon

TWO JARS

GOOD morning, madam," said the statuesque beauty specialist, cordially.
"I suppose you wish to take one of our complexion treatments?"

"Do you think you could improve my complexion?"
asked the woman who had just entered the reception room.

The beauty specialist smiled. "I can positively guarantee it," she replied. "In a month's time you won't recognize yourself. We'll have all the muddiness removed and the skin as clear and rosy as an infant's."

"How would you do it?" asked the woman. "I don't believe I should like to have my face peeled."

"It won't be necessary, madam," said the beauty specialist. "We can improve the present state quite successfully by a process of medical steaming and the application of our know it isn't what it might be, but I've got rather used to it, and most of my friends seem to be able to stand it."

"The hair?"

"What would you suggest in regard to my hair?" asked the caller.

"Follicle," answered the specialist, promptly. "It's the only remedy ever discovered for any disease of the scalp. There are numberless preparations that claim to promote the growth of hair and restore its color, but Follicle is the only one that really does it. You need first the galvanic treatment in conjunction with capthradium shampoo, then the Fol-licle. It isn't an expensive treatment, considering the results."

"Well, it isn't the hair, either," said the woman, hesitatingly.

"The figure?" smiled the specialist.
"My figure is rather thin—isn't it?"
said the woman. "I'm afraid I'm plain skinny."

"The beauty specialist swept her with an appraising eye. "I should think you could stand about 30 pounds

"I DON'T BELIEVE I SHOULD LIKE TO HAVE MY FACE PEELED."

any occasion to remove it. We could remove it if you preferred to have it done, but it is a more expensive process for one thing, and I don't recommend it except in extreme cases."

"You don't consider mine an extreme case, then?" said the woman, hopefully.

"Oh, not by any means," replied the beauty specialist. "We have treated far worse complexions than yours, and have given the best satisfaction."

"But the wrinkles—aren't they too deep?"

"Not at all," said the specialist, showing her teeth in another winning smile. "It might take a little time to remove them, but—"

"It has taken time to bring them," said the caller.

"Not very long, I think," said the beauty specialist, diplomatically. "A good many people wrinkle quite young. With scientific manipulation and electric stimulation and plenty of the best skin food, I don't think any reason why you shouldn't have your face as smooth as it ever was."

"I didn't come to see you about my complexion," said the woman. "I more flesh," she said. "It will be an easy matter to put that on you."

"How?" asked the woman visitor.

"Massage, principally," said the beauty specialist. "A massage is used by our operators. It is entirely harmless."

"Dear me!" said the woman. "And the eyes—you can give me something to brighten the eyes, can't you? I don't mean belladonna, but something that would be harmless and permanent—and is there any way to reduce the knob on my nose?"

"The simplest thing in the world," said the beauty specialist. "If you will kindly step into my room I will

"Thank you," said the woman en-tler, "but I won't trouble you. Of course, it would be delightful to be made all over after the most approved models, but it would distress me too much to be obliged to introduce myself to my relatives. No, I called to recipe for a cream that would answer every purpose, but she's in love with attracts her. A dollar and a half a

THE LETTER BOX

ORSON smiled to himself as the camp came in sight when he rounded the point in his canoe.

It was the first time Corson had been in some weeks, for he had passed a dolorous summer in town. At the camp, he was sure to find rest from the doubts that assailed him, for in the woods Charley Corson forgot even Lillian Blacklee.

It was not an easy matter to forget Lillian, for Lillian had been the cause of his wretched summer. He had let the Blacklees have the camp for the hot months. His business kept him in town through what Corson called the "searching season," but he had taken pleasure in the thought that Lillian was in camp and learning to love it as much as he did.

Next year he hoped that there would be a June wedding, and a July honeymoon in the camp. There was nothing more than an understanding between them, but Lillian had made it plain what her answer would be when Corson spoke, and as the weeks went by, and her letters grew more and more irregular, Corson first grew puzzled, then worried.

Even when they broke camp Corson did not learn the fact until after they had left the woods. Mrs. Blacklee's note of thanks hinted at an earlier letter, but there was none from Lillian, and Mrs. Blacklee did not speak of her.

In spite of the thanks there was a tinge of coldness and reserve in her note that made Corson more doleful than ever. He and Mrs. Blacklee were great chums. Now she seemed to share Lillian's dislike.

He had welcomed the news that the camp was again at his disposal, for in the woods he could forget his troubles for a time, and find the rest that he sought. The camp might remind him of Lillian, but with red or gun he could conjure the vision away.
He paddled to shore and was delighted to find that the camp had been left in perfect order. It was only necessary to remove the board shutters from doors and windows, give things a dusting and set up housekeeping. Before long a pot of coffee was perfuming the air and bacon was sizzling in the pan.

The supper things out of the way,
Corson made the round of the camp.
He had reached the rough road that ran at the rear of the camp, when he encountered the dead stump that two years before had been used as the mail box for a private mail delivery.

Teddy Grimson had been in camp with him that year, and it was Teddy who induced one of the farmers to make tri-weekly trips with the mail.
Ted had fixed up the stump as their private box and had made a special trip to town to obtain a metal plate with "U. S. Mail" on it to give dignity to the appearance of their private postoffice.

There was a cunningly contrived door in the opposite side of the trunk, and Corson glanced in to see how much the stump had decayed since the year before.

To his surprise he found that the cavity was half filled with letters and in a flash he realized that the Blacklees' servant, a recently landed emigrant, had mailed the letters here.
Some few had been taken to town when the boat went in, but the rest had been deposited here.

He fished them out, damp and partly mildewed, and with a double handful he made his way back to the camp.

On the table he sorted them out—his own from the others, and arranging them by dates he sat down to read.

It was all clear enough now, Lillian had started out with a letter in which she described the trip and told how well they liked the camp. In the second she expressed surprise that her earlier letter had not been answered and in the third she blamed him for not writing in answer apparently to his own complaint.

In all there were a dozen letters before the final one in which she declared that since he would not believe that she had written there seemed to be no use in writing at all.

There were several letters from Mrs. Blacklee asking him what the trouble was and there were a score of letters to other friends. These last Corson carefully did up in a bundle and then he sat down to write a letter of explanation.

"I never supposed that the letters had been 'delayed in transit,'" he concluded, "and I blame myself for not understanding what the matter was. I should have removed the slot from the tree, but I didn't suppose that even a newly-arrived 'greenie' would suppose that Uncle Sam had mail boxes scattered through the woods. It was a delight to get so many letters from you all at once, but I will swap the lot for one little letter containing the single word 'yes.'"

He made a special trip to the village to mail the package and then made daily trips for the answer.

He had not long to wait. Before the end of the week he found a bulky letter in the box, and he could not wait until he got to camp to read it. With the canoe floating on the surface of the lake he let it drift while he read over the letter.

"It was not Norah," wrote Lillian,
"but the rest of us—and Teddy Grison. When we left town Ted begged us to use his private postoffice if we wanted to. I suppose that he thought we should see the joke, but we didn't, and unless we were going to town we mailed the letters in the box, and it never occurred to us to wonder whether they had been collected or not. You see we are not woodsmen like you. Next year you can show us, for I accept your offer of exchange and will send the 'yes' as soon as I receive the package. I don't want to let you keep the letters after we are married, to prove what a bad temper
I had."

Corson struck across the lake as he had never paddled before, and he got the letters back in time for the night mail. Then he paddled home more slowly, and in the cool of the evening he dug up the trunk and dragged it to the camp.

It is still used as a mail box, but it stands within the hall, and Mrs.
Corson warns their occasional guests that letters are liable to be delayed in transit.

"We lost a lot that way," she explains, but she does not add the explanation of the smiling glance that is exchanged between herself and Corson when she speaks of the letters.

GOSSIPS

THINK she's the

the woman in green broadcloth. "I don't like her a bit."

"I thought Mrs.
Trenchot was rather pleasant," said the hostess. "Of course you know her better than I do, though."

"She puts on such superior airs," complained the caller in green. "I hate people who think they are so superior."

know that. I knew perfectly well they were trying to keep it hidden.
Mrs. Brandon's uncle is in an insane asylum and either his mother or her mother committed suicide and Mr.
and Mrs. Brandon are second cousins.
I'll tell you how I came to know that.
I met some people over on the South Side about two weeks ago. Hiram, their name is. It was at Bertha Westerley's I met them.

"Well, we were talking about different people and I happened to mention the Brandons and it seemed as if they knew me. I don't mean personally, but a cousin of hers lived in the same town with them; with the Brandons, you understand—and they were quite intimate. This Mrs. Hiram says her cousin was always talking of the Brandons. Isn't it funny how you run across people who know people you know?"

"Well, the very next day I had to pay some calls, and it happened that Mrs. Trenchot was the first, and I knew how thick she and her husband were with the Brandons, so I naturally thought she would be interested.
So I asked her if she had heard, just as I asked you. What do you think she said?"

"I can't imagine," said the hostess.
"She said, 'I haven't heard anything creditable about them, if that's what you mean.' Now, don't you think that was rather insulting?"
I didn't think about it until after I had left the house and she may not have meant it to me. Anyway, I went on and told her, and she listened, as I said, in that superior sort of way, without saying a word.

"Perhaps you imagine that," suggested the hostess tolerantly.

"No, I don't. I just know she thinks so. I don't know why she should, though. She plays a wretched game at bridge. My husband says she didn't seem to him to have common intelligence. He was her partner last Thursday at Woolton's, and he says
'never again' for him. Her paper on Lewell at the club—you were there, weren't you? No? Well, it was awful. I could have done better myself, and I don't pretend to know anything about literature."

"I suppose I read about as much as most people, and all that sort of thing, don't you know, but what I mean is that I don't make any preten-sions. Have you seen that new hat she's wearing? You ought to. It's an expensive hat, but the worst looking thing you ever did see. The most hideous shades of purple, and with the complexion she has—well, you can't imagine."

"She's very quiet, isn't she?"
Rather reserved, I think."

"Yes, and I hate that sort of woman," said the caller in the green broadcloth. "She sits and lets you do all the talking and looks at you as if she was just taking it all in and—you heard about Mrs. Brandon and her husband, didn't you?"

"I don't remember to have heard anything particular about them lately," answered the hostess.

"Here!" said the woman in green.
"She said she supposed everybody knew that. 'Well, I know that myself."

MRS. TRENCHOT.

October 2, 1913

KATE'S COUSIN

It was just three days before the Junior ball. The committee, gathered in the room of the chairman, grew impatient.

"Where is Kate?"

"O, Kate's interviewing the psychology department; she'll be here directly."

"What on earth is she doing there?"

"Why, Prof. Watts is one of our patronesses, you know, and she sent word to Kate to come and tell her what to wear. Those faculty patronesses are the worst 'fuss-tubs'—more trouble than all the musicians, decorators and caterers put together."

The door opened and Kate hurried in, her cheeks glowing and her eyes sparkling from her rapid walk.

"You're trumps all of you to wait; but I couldn't get off any sooner. What do you think has happened now? Promise not to faint and I'll tell you. Dr. Watts has decided to bring an escort. She's actually going to have a youth for the Junior ball."

"Miss Watts! An escort!" gasped one of the committee. "Why, what will she do with an escort?"

"Do?" said Kate, with a weary shrug of the shoulders. "She doesn't intend to do anything with him. She's engaged him completely over to poor, overworked me. When I went to her after psychology just now, she assumed that sugary manner of hers—just as if she was complimenting me on a paper—or conferring final honors in philosophy—and explained, that she had invited a second cousin's uncle's godson's brother's nephew, or something of the sort. She said that he was delighted at the prospect, and that, of course, he would want to dance. She knew, in a general way, that we had our dance orders made out beforehand, and asked me please to have one made out for him."

Kate paused a moment to scan the faces of her amused listeners. "Pardon the situation! He's probably some well-behaved, near-sighted, young fellow, dances like a hen and now, just because his great-aunt's second cousin's best friend happens to be head of the psychology department, we've got to make things pleasant for him. And the worst of it all is that while we're dancing around with him our men will have to be sitting it out in some coquettish corner with Miss Watts."

"But, Kate, dear," said one of the committee, "didn't you explain to Miss Watts that our dance orders were all made out long ago and that it would be quite impossible?"

Kate raised her hand with an assuring gesture. "I'm not running any risks with the psychology department. I'm working for credit, and besides, maybe the poor lad is looking forward to it. So, come on, girls; do your best and be generous." She tore a sheet from a notebook on the table at her side.

"Here's his order. First, he must have his first and supper dances with Miss Watts. That's settled. Now, little ones," she inquired, turning to the youngest member of the committee, "I know you are saving altogether too many dances for that doting cherub of yours, and you know it isn't considered dignified to give too many dances to one's own man. Take your choice; which one will you give up?"

"O, Kate, you can't expect me to give him any. Dick would be perfectly furious, after he'd come all the way from Chicago. Why, I've only nine with him now. O, I simply can't."

Then the member of the committee interrupted. "And, Kate, you don't, of course, expect me to, because we're engaged and—O, well, there's no use arguing with me, I simply can't!"

Kate, nothing daunted, continued her pleas. But the next member had her excuse, too.

"Kate, you've made me exchange dances with so many weird people! I don't mind asking Tom to sit it out with Miss Watts, but I do draw the line at having to dance with her young charge. But here goes—put me down for the ninth."

The other three committee members, moved by this generosity, each grudgingly gave up a single dance.

"Now," said Kate, regarding the dance order with disapproval, "you girls haven't given the dear boy a single wait, and I just know he dotes on a dainty wait. Now, witness my generosity! I will take three dances with him—the sixth, the tenth and the last."

"The last!" echoed one of the girls. "Why, what about your own man?"

"O, Watson won't mind. He's my own cousin, you know, and more than three-quarters engaged to a girl out in Denver; and besides that, Miss Watts and her escort will surely go before the last, and then I'll have it with Watson after all. Now, enough of the dear boy for today, and tomorrow I shall endeavor to beg, borrow, bribe or steal a few more dances from

The day of the ball came all too soon. A thousand and one unexpected details cropped up at the last minute, and Kate worked from early in the morning till late in the afternoon, giving the last necessary directions to florists and caterers, maids and musicians—interviewing reporters and cheerfully answering countless questions put by excited classmates and solicitous instructors.

The Junior's escorts were arriving receiving with the patronesses and the committee, she showed no signs of the hard day's work she had accomplished.

"Isn't Kate the prettiest thing tonight?" one of the committee was whispering to a junior near her.

"Isn't she! Other classes have had more striking chairmen, perhaps, but Kate is just about the most refreshing sight I ever saw. But isn't it funny she didn't ask someone beside

Just then the strains of the opening two-step sounded above the din of the many voices.

Kate's moment of triumph had come, and with all eyes centered upon her, she and her cousin stepped out upon the glistening floor to open the dance.

"Say, Kate," said her cousin as soon as the anxiety of the first two-step was over and the floor was crowded with the other dancers, "it's a confounded shame to waste your loveliness all on me tonight. That get-up suits you to a T. Honest, Kitty, why didn't you let one of the boys come on for this? I fully expected you'd have that young chap you met in Denver last summer. I'd have sworn you liked him."

Kate tried to conceal her uneasiness. She felt the deep red mount in her pink cheeks, and a little choke of disappointment quivered in her throat.

"Why, my dear cousin, how dare you suggest a substitute. I feel so safe and comfortable with you no matter what happens nor how badly the dance goes."

"Yes, Kate, but you're not answering my question about Boughton. He's such a tip-top fellow, I hate to see you cut him short so soon."

Kate buried her face on her arm as she danced. She was tired, and the strain had taken away her usual self-control.

Suddenly, feeling her confusion, Boughton changed the subject. "Well, it's going tip-top, little cousin. Everything's perfection."

"Yes, it's all right, excepting that one of your patronesses hasn't appeared. Psychology professor, rather odd, but mighty good to us girls. And the worst of it all is that she is bringing a protégé of hers of whom I have full confidence. I wonder what has become of her?"

It was not until the sixth dance that she thought again of Miss Watts and her escort. She had excused herself from her last partner and was making her way with her cousin to the range of chairs where the patronesses were seated.

"Now, your duty," she was explaining, "is to absorb Miss Watts in psychological appreciations, while I collar the young hopeful and—"

She stopped suddenly as she saw a few feet off the familiar figure of Edward Boughton. A feeling of weariness seized her as she put her hand on her cousin's arm.

"How did he dare?" she gasped.

"Good evening, Katherine," he was saying quite naturally. "Hello, Watson, glad to see you here. Our dance, I believe, Kate."

"No, indeed," Kate assured him, with her hand still on her cousin's arm. "I don't in the least underhand—but my dances are all taken, anyway."

She had not heard her cousin's hearty greeting of his old friend nor caught the look that passed between the two men.

"I wonder where Miss Watts can be," she went on nervously.

"Why, Miss Watts couldn't possibly get over, Kate. You see, I brought my mother on with me and she and Miss Watts are such old friends and had such a lot to talk about that she knew you'd forgive her for staying at home."

Kate was dazed. "But where is her escort?" she gasped.

The two men laughed.

"Kitty, this looks like a put-up job, all right," her cousin took her trembling little hand in his. "This, I believe, is the 'young hopeful' you were telling me about, but I seem to be completely dished out of my psychological discourse."

And later when she found herself with Edward Boughton in a secluded corner of the imprudent conservatory, fashioned under her own direction that very afternoon—and realized that a new dance was on, which she owed to some one else, she had neither power nor desire to find, but went back to the crowded ball room.

In fact, it was not until she had become fully convinced of the fact that Edward Boughton was really there—and that a great many other things were true beside—that she finally reappeared in the ball room.

"O, Kate," called a member of the committee, rushing up to her. "I cut that dance with Mrs. Watts's escort. I forgot all about it."

"Never mind, dear," Kate reassured. "Miss Watts and her friend didn't come after all, so no one need be bothered about him. Just tell the other girls about it, will you?"

"SAY, KATE," SAID HER COUSIN, "IT'S A CONFOUNDED SHAME TO WASTE YOUR LOVELINESS ON ME TONIGHT."

the less exclusive crowd. You really can't expect to dance only with the committee. Now, to order, girls, we've got so much business to attend to."

on every train, and the rest of the committee forgot their duty in the midst of this new excitement. But Kate, because she had only asked her cousin, and he was practically engaged—worked on undisturbed.

But that night, when she stood in the brilliantly lighted gymnasium, that cousin of hers—she's such an attractive girl, and this of all times—

The member of the committee smiled knowingly. "O, she expected to, you know, but there was a serious misunderstanding—quite an affair, I believe. Please don't tell and I'll tell you all about it."

She stopped suddenly as she saw a other girls about it, will you?"

A BUSINESS WOMAN

AYARD DRILLHAM walked down the main street of Perch Harbor with his head slightly tilted to one side.

When acquaintances of Mr. Drillham met him walking down LaSalle street in Chicago with his head at that angle, or when his office force observed him inclining his neatly parted hair toward one shoulder, he it never so slightly, they effaced themselves deftly, swiftly, for they knew the sign—Mr. Drillham was in a bad temper.

Originally he had started out in life possessed of the average good nature of his kind, but many things combined to foster latent irritability. He had been an only son and none had surrounded him from the cradle. He had been favored on in college and catered to by people in general and business success had also been his.

There was little wonder then that at 35, Bayard Drillham, should have grown into the way of thinking all things must move at his bidding; that the very universe must jump at his call. And in Perch Harbor he had struck a snag in the smooth running of his life.

His city newspapers arrived or did not arrive according to their own sweet will, apparently, and though he had been ordered to the small Visconin town by his physician for a month's absolute rest, he could not shut himself off entirely from news of the world and the market. If he could not be there in the thick of the fight with the other brokers, he at least must keep tab on them. And he was heading with blue fire in his eyes for the tiny little news depot the town boasted. Behind the counter was the shock-haired boy to whom he had given his order a few days after arriving. Mr. Drillham fixed on him his stoniest glance and experienced a feeling of considerable elation at the knowledge of the forthcoming verbal saying, for ill-health had reduced him even to such a mental state.

And in a low, even voice Mr. Drillham started in, "If you people used an ounce of sense," he ended, with some heat, "or showed the slightest desire to accommodate your customers, you might do a decent business, but as things go now—why, I got my paper on only three days this week—you'll be in the bankruptcy court in a month! There isn't any system, not even human common sense of the most ordinary variety."

Bayard Drillham was not conscious that he had ceased speaking. In the door behind the shock-headed boy, with one hand pressed against the casing, a woman had suddenly appeared and stood facing him, head thrown back.

As he looked at her, a living, breathing incarnation of wrath, it dawned on him that, after all, she was only a girl in spite of the superb carriage, the Juno shoulders, the entire air of sufficiency. Her eyes burned dark beneath brows lined by a delicate and lanky pencil, her teeth were sunk against her scarlet lips.

Afterward Bayard remarked that if she had suddenly buried a sheaf of thunderbolts at him he should not have been in the least amazed. What she did do was to move swiftly forward, so that only the counter separated her from the irate customer, and her rich voice was vibrant.

"One would suppose," she said, "that your own supply of common sense would teach you that you are wasting your complaints on a boy of 15 who earns $2 a week and doesn't care two cents whether the business succeeds or fails! Why don't you come to headquarters?"

"And that is—"

"Myself!" flashed the girl. There was a deep color rising in her cheeks and, strangely enough, her lip quivered. She bent over a pad of paper.

"If you will repeat your order to me," she said in an expressionless voice; and Drillham meekly did so, his head whirling. Never in his life had he been caught up so sharply or so coldly as in his place.

A sense of his foolish petulance swept over him like a hot wave and his sick nerves quivered. Yet how could he explain to this girl, an utter stranger, that she mustn't mind because really he was half an invalid? And why should it make any difference to him? Yet he writhed as he stood there, his order ended, watching her.

Suddenly she lifted her eyes as with an effort. She was very pale now and he fancied there was a hint of appeal in her gaze. Was there on earth another creature of such varying aspects and moods?

He glanced around the little shop desperately and bought an armful of magazines at random. The shock-headed boy waited on him and the girl retired again to her tiny office, but bent over the desk. Still dazed, he left the shop and dropped into the drug store. He had made friends with the queer old proprietor.

"Who is she?" repeated the old man as Drillham lighted the cigar just purchased.

"Say, that girl's all right! Her dad owns that store, no-account he was, but he worshipped Judith. The only thing that kept him at work at all was that she wanted to go to college, and he had to earn the money. And in the middle of her second year he up and died, and after the funeral, when she found that the store was all she had in the world, why she just naturally started out to run it. That was three months ago. Of course she isn't much on business, but she gets along."

"She impressed me as being decidedly able to take care of herself," Drillham found himself saying a little curtly.

The old man laughed. "Judith's got a way with her," he said. "She always carried her head high. But I've seen her cry over a robin with a busted leg when she was younger, and lordy, but she can run from a cow! She's just a girl, after all!"

Bayard Drillham walked back slowly to his quiet boarding place. He was trying to imagine Judith White frightened, appealing, tremulous, and could not. Yet as he pictured her face, tempestuous, haughty and commanding, he remembered suddenly that odd little quiver to her lips, and her pallor. It was a curious combination.

It was so curious that the following day found him back in the little shop, where he demanded more magazines, quite unabashed at the memory of his yesterday's purchases.

The boy was away and Judith herself waited on him, cool, reserved, polite. She wore dark blue, with white collar and cuffs, and he smilingly wondered if she knew she looked as if she were dressed for a part in a play. Somehow his attempts at conversation, while frankly met, never got anywhere, and he found himself going out when he most decidedly wished to stay in.

And each day brought him more firmly under thrall of her deep, dark eyes, her aloofness, her superb ability to care for herself.

Never had Bayard Drillham so patiently tried to make friends with any man, to say nothing of a woman, for all his life he had fled from them, and out. Yet he stayed on in Perch Harbor.

Once he said to her half derisively, "Do you intend to waste your whole life here?"

"Why not?" she had countered indignantly. "I was born here! I belong here!"

Judith was paler these days, and one morning Drillham vaguely worried, entered the shop only to find it empty. There was no sound, and he stepped to the door leading to her little office. There with her head down on her outspread arms was Judith. As he looked her shoulders heaved.

With one bound Bayard Drillham was beside her, drawing her to him as one draws a weeping child. "What is it, Judith?" he asked terrified. "What has happened?"

The fact that instead of repelling him she half clung to him in a limp sort of despair added to his terror.

"O," she gasped hoarsely, "I've had to give up! I'm beaten. I've fought and been concealed enough to think I could do things, but I guess you were right! There's been no system or common sense in the way I've run the business and now I've run it into the ground! The store'll be closed tomorrow!"

Bayard Drillham looked down at the tear-stained face with a great thrill of unbelieving happiness. His goodness was only a girl after all!

"Confound the store!" he told her. "I've wanted to marry you all along and never dared say so before! Can't you care a little? Won't you go back with me, dear?"

"I've cared ever since I was so angry at you that first time," confessed Judith, unexpectedly.

"YOU OUGHT TO HAVE ASKED THE ONE IN CHARGE."

And for many days the little scene never had he encountered such an intimacy repeated. He told himself it was passable well.

So constantly were his thoughts ever could catch the goddess off her guard to find if she really were like stuffy little shop that he forgot to other a girl. A mad idea of hunting think of himself and his illness and up a broken-legged bird possessed, the result was that health sought him

TWO ARGUMENTS

T was all so very foolish. They had been engaged for six months—Kitty Eastman and Howard Walton—and her Uncle John had promised that when the marriage came off he would present her with a cottage and an acre of ground.

On this night the lovers were talking away in the jolliest manner when Miss Kitty happened to wonder how many pumpkin trees there were in the garden. The young man at once proceeded to air his superior knowledge by trotting out the pumpkin vine.

"But if pumpkins don't grow on trees then carrots do," protested and asserted the young lady in the same breath.

As a matter of fact both of them were more ignorant of matters pertaining to the vegetable kingdom than the farmer is of the city picture gallery, but this was the first time they had ever differed and neither wanted to give up.

The result was that Mr. Walton donned his hat and took a walk, and Miss Eastman stamped her foot and shed tears.

No engaged young man, who knows who thinks she knows, pursue and catch him by the coat tails.

And when the next evening came what excuse had Howard Walton for apologizing?

And was Miss Kitty Eastman going to write such a note? Not at all. If Mr. H. W. could walk off that way, he must find some other way to walk back.

One bad feature about the affair was that she was going with her mother to the Catskills the next week, while he didn't expect a vacation at all during the summer. If Howard didn't call and help make up before she went away, what then? Could it be done by letter? Could it ever be done at all?

And Howard contented himself with walking past the house about 30 times every evening, and no little note came, and by and by the little was shut for the season. It was a dolorous business.

It was to find a place in which she could sigh unobserved by the other guests—where her eyes could moisten without her mother recommending somebody's eye-water—that Miss Kitty started out from the Mountain house one morning after breakfast for a solitary walk.

No; it was a solitary climb. There is no walking up there. One simply climbs from shelf to shelf until they get somewhere, and it is twice as hard work getting back to where you started from.

Kitty climbed and clambered and finally got somewhere. It was on a slab of rock just wide enough for two to sit on. There was but one of her, and she had room to spare. This was another grievance to add to the list.

Miss Kitty had been sitting on the shelf for two long hours, and if she had been less preoccupied she might have been alarmed three or four different times over. As a matter of fact, the stone was not secure. It had been crawling along like a worm from the first moment of feeling her weight.

At a certain point it must tip and send her into the tree-tops below. That point would have been reached in half a minute more, when a man sprang on to the shelf and picked the girl up and sprang to one side and ten feet down with her. Both lay stunned for a moment, and then she opened her eyes to cry out:

"Sir, how dare you! O, it's Harold! What—what has happened?"

"I got here just in time to see the shelf sliding with you. We are both bruised, but have you any broken bones?"

Miss Kitty had a dignity to maintain. She realized that in ten seconds, and she replied:

"Mr. Walton, I have no broken bones, thank you. How does it happen that you are here in the mountains?"

"On banking business," he glibly replied.

"O, I see. There are so many banks up here!"

"I found you had walked in this direction, and so I followed."

"Yes! Well, I have no banking business to do."

"And the bank said I could stay for two weeks."

"But you'll tire of it in three days. There isn't a single attraction here."

"Um, Kitty, I came up to tell you."

"Miss Eastman, please. You came up to tell me that pumpkins grow in strawberry beds, perhaps?"

"Kitty, I was foolish, but, you see—you know—I have been brought up in a bank, and—"

At that moment they heard footsteps approaching, and a minute later a mountain farmer came into view and halted to rest:

"Have you folks seen anything of a calf round here? He got out of the pen last night, and the foolheaded critter don't know 'nuff to come back."

He was assured that nothing had been seen of a calf, and then the lovers looked at each other and to the farmer and back. Both had the same thought. Here was a farmer—a man that knew all about carrots and pumpkins. Should they appeal to him? Yes.

"Mister, do carrots grow on vines?" asked Miss Kitty in her innocent way.

"Lor, but how I pity you city folks!" replied the man as he tilted back his old hat.

"And do pumpkins grow on trees?" asked Howard.

"Yes, they grow right beside idiot! How do you folks manage down there to keep out of lunatic asylums?"

When he had departed the lovers started down the mountain. Hardly a word was said until they reached the veranda of the hotel. Then they looked at each other, discovered that both were smiling, and said in chorus:

"I'm glad the farmer was looking for his lost calf!"

And thereafter—? But we all know that those things are always made up and happiness returns.

L. Sayre, California Fruit Packers' Association.

Madison declared that he had secured positive proof that such methods were being pursued by some packers outside the Associated, to get raisins, but did not mention any names. He made the following statement regarding the tactics that he declares have been pursued:

It is surprising to think that supposedly reputable packers, not associated with this corporation, will keep their packing houses open at night for the purpose of receiving raisins that may in a strict sense of the word be called stolen goods, because they are delivered by some weak minded, unscrupulous grower who has signed a contract for the sale of his raisins to this corporation but who, in the dark of night, steals away to deliver to packers who keep their doors open to receive that class of goods at a time when no right minded people are doing business, and who will take advantage of the grower who does not fully understand the meaning of his contract.

ASSOCIATED PACKERS

In order that all growers may be properly informed as to the packers who are affiliated with the Associated Raisin Company, Manager Madison gave out yesterday the list of those

MEN DRINK BOOZE IN NEGRO CHURCH, JAILED BY POLICE

Open Door of Colored Place of Worship Invites Men to Pulpit

That a church is no place to drink beer and wine, was discovered by Alexander Hillman and then Cong yesterday when they found the door of a negro place of worship standing open, and after drinking a few bottles of beer, the rostrum were arrested by Patrolmen Hansen and Hartigan on charges of vagrancy and disorderly conduct. A member of the parish happened to police head in the door while the men were drinking and speedily summoned the officers of the police. The man explained that they had the beer, did not want to drink it on the street and as they found the door of the church open with no one on the inside, they decided it was as good as any spot.

NO CHANGE MADE IN NURSES' HOURS

Proposed Change Back to Ten Hour Shifts Did Not Occur Yesterday

The eight hour law was not abolished yesterday, the first day of the month, by the directors of the Burnett Sanitarium, Company, and student nurses were not required to work ten hours. Last Sunday night, announcement was made that probably after the first of the month the sanitarium would disregard the new law and work the student nurses longer than eight hours. No definite date was set for the change but it was rumored that it would take place yesterday. Whether the directors of the sanitarium intend to violate the law for one day and make a test case or adhere to the law and await the outcome of the proposed test cases in San Francisco, could not be learned last night. The Burnett directors have been living up to the letter of the recently enacted law as far as possible and student nurses have not been asked to work longer than eight hours.

GIRL OF THIRTEEN CASHES BAD CHECKS

Says Mother Gave Them to Her; Woman Not Located

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—"I didn't know they were bad; Mama gave them to me." Priscilla Kimmins, 13 years old, made that explanation to the police tonight when they questioned her regarding the crime attributed to her this afternoon in a department store where she was arrested on a charge of having passed worthless checks.

She declared that she was the daughter of Dr. Bruce R. Kimmins of San Diego but temporarily a resident of Los Angeles, and that she had been given checks by her mother to cash. She couldn't give her mother's address.

She denied any willful wrongdoing on her part and told Nick Harris, the detective who arrested her, a weird story of having traveled from Vienna to San Diego in seven days after having "changed boats" at several inland points in the Trans Atlantic.

The detectives found Dr. Kimmins, who told them he and his daughter and a younger son were living together, but that he had been divorced from the children's mother for six years. The officers said Dr. Kimmins declared his former wife was in frequent communication with Priscilla, but that he also was unable to tell where she lived.

The detectives began a search for Mrs. Kimmins mentioning holding Priscilla at the police station, unable to decide what to do with her.

DETERMINE TO END COMMERCE COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—A struggle to save the commerce court from abolition in the Senate appropriations committee ended today when the full committee agreed to provision placed in the urgent deficiency bill by the house abolishing the court and distributing its jurisdiction to the various district courts. Supporters of the court made a vigorous fight to prevent the adoption of the House provision by the committee but were defeated.

RURAL CREDITS TO BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Chairman Glass of the House banking and currency committee was authorized today to appoint a sub-committee to make thorough investigation of the subject of the rural credit and agricultural loans. The committee probably will not report any plan for legislation before next winter. A sub-committee on the subject of guarantee of bank deposits also was authorized.

LUMBER INTERESTS INVOLVED IN WAR

Coast Mills Want Valley Rate; Will Effect Fresno and Madera Counties

A state-wide lumber war, which will materially affect Fresno and Madera counties, with the redwood interests of the coast counties arrayed against the pine, cedar and redwood mills of the Sierras, broke out yesterday. Northern lumber concerns, which ship their redwood to San Francisco by boat, are attempting to get a rate into the San Joaquin valley over the Southern Pacific that will enable them to compete with the Sierra mills.

The opening battle was fought between the Railroad Commission in San Francisco yesterday morning, when a committee from the San Francisco chamber of commerce started proceedings in an attempt to reduce the Southern Pacific lumber rate into the valley by approximately 60 per cent.

The Sacramento Bee's special San Francisco correspondent has the following to say concerning the situation:

The local lumber jobbers, with the backing of the chamber of commerce, are allied in a fight to force the railroads to carry the lumber which is shipped in here by water to interior points at rates which will enable them to compete with the output of the Sierra Mills.

The lumber men of northern California have combined to make a stubborn resistance. They demand that if the rates out of San Francisco are cut, a proportionate reduction be made in the transportation charges which they are now obliged to pay.

The war affects the lumber and building industries in every section of the state. Most of the redwood timber now used in California is brought here on vessels from the Coast ports. The San Francisco dealers claim that the railroad's shipping rates now in effect make it impossible for them to sell lumber in interior cities and towns as cheaply as the mountain lumber mills of northern California, and the counties in the foothills of the Sierras. Valley can supply it. The interior lumber men are fighting to prevent the invasion of their rivals, and practically all of the Sierra lumber interests have intervened in the proceedings before the Commission.

Tentative rates of 1.2-2 per ton mile for lumber hauls of less than 100 miles out of this city, 1.4 for 100 mile hauls, and 1.6 for longer hauls have been suggested to the Commission by the chamber of commerce. The existing rates are about 60 per cent higher.

YOUNG OELRICHS HELD FOR CRIME

Auto Accident Results In Attempt to Buy Girl Off and Police Revelations

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Hermann Oelrichs, Columbia law student and son of the late Hermann Oelrichs, shipping merchant, was arrested by order of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty late tonight on a charge of telephone assault as the result of a story told to the police by Lucille Singleton, a 15-year-old Bryn Mawr student, daughter of a Texas mine owner.

At the same time a detective, Theodore Trayer, who had investigated an automobile accident to young Oelrichs on Broadway last night, was suspended. The machine that met with the accident, in which Miss Singleton had been reported "injured" by being tossed through the windshield of the machine was insufficient in the light of developments in the case as obtained later by other detectives. It was announced at police headquarters.

Miss Singleton told these detectives, according to Dougherty, that she had been stabbed by a man to whom she referred as "Creighton" her companion in the car. Trayer, prior to this, had reported, said Dougherty, that Miss Singleton told him she was not stabbed and that in reply to a question whether she knew Oelrichs she replied "no." The machine that met with the accident, however, striking a stone and crushing into a tree, belonged to Oelrichs. The girl's companion fled, leaving the wrecked car behind him, and Miss Singleton was removed to a hospital and later to her home.

Youth wearing glasses and saying he was a detective called on Miss Singleton today and advised her to "settle" a case for money, detectives told Dougherty, and after a conversation in which the sum of $5,000 was mentioned, an understanding was reached that "Creighton" was to give her $400.

Commissioner Dougherty tonight arranged for Miss Singleton to telephone the home of "Creighton" and ask him to come to her home, which she did. Detectives, concealed themselves there and Oelrichs and a companion, they say, walked in and Oelrichs was arrested as a result of a conversation between the two and Miss Singleton. The other man was not made a prisoner. The young woman's condition, it was said tonight, is not serious.
